Hughes' Reply Gives Little Comfort to Japan

IMMIGRATION ACT
NO LONGER OPEN
FOR DISCUSSION

American Reply to Japanese Protest Is Friendly in Tone but Firm in Meaning.

LAW IS MANDATORY
ON U. S. EXECUTIVES

Secretary of State Offers No Hope of Treaty To Supplant Statute—No Pressure To Repeal.

Washington, June 18.—The American reply to the Japanese protest against the exclusion provision of the American act was made public tonight by the state department simultaneously with its publication through the foreign office in Tokyo. It is cordial and friendly in tone, but at the same time makes it clear that the exclusion provision in no way trespasses upon any written or implied obligation on the part of the United States.

Secretary Hughes points out that congress was wholly within its right in the enactment of the provision and that the action taken "is mandatory upon the executive branch of the government and allows no latitude for the exercise of executive discretion as to the carrying out of the executive will expressed in the statute."

The construction generally placed upon the American note is that it conclusively demonstrates the view of the Washington government that the exclusion law is a closed incident and that no attempt to modify or alter its terms is to be expected.

Secretary Hughes, in the note which he prepared with utmost care, expresses pleasure over the "friendliness and candor" of the protest communication delivered to him by Ambassador Hanabara May 31.

"You may be assured of the readiness of this government to consider in the same spirit the views you have set forth," Mr. Hughes adds.

Analyses Exclusion.

The note then analyzes the exclusion provision applicable to all aliens ineligible for citizenship as it is modified by the exception contained in the act and points out:

"It will be observed that, taking these exceptions into account, the provision in question does not differ greatly in its practical operation, or in the policy which it reflects, from the understanding embodied in the gentlemen's agreement under which the Japanese government has cooperated with the government of the United States in preventing the emigration of Japanese laborers to this country."

Appreciation of this cooperation in carrying out a "long established policy" is expressed and the communication adds:

"Indeed, the appropriateness of that policy, which has not evidenced any lack of esteem for the Japanese people, their character and achievements has been confirmed rather than questioned by the voluntary action of

The Merchant Who Looked For Atlanta in Vain---

Of the climate and other conditions of the settlement now grown into Atlanta, Mr. David Mayer had heard much in 1847.

But Mr. Mayer didn't locate in Atlanta then, and for a reason sound enough: he couldn't find the town.

The town must have been here, though, for Mr. Mayer continued to hear about it until a year later when he came back. This time he succeeded in finding Atlanta. He stayed to live happily and prosper.

Men of Mr. Mayer's grit made up Atlanta of old. If they couldn't find the town at first they searched till they did find it and then went to work.

Business may be hard to find for every merchant now and then, but the business is right here and the merchant who keeps going after it gets it.

You'll find that one of the most profitable ways to connect with this business is through the advertising columns of The Atlanta Constitution.

IRENE WILL QUIT
STAGE AND SCREEN
FOR DOMESTICITY

New York, June 18.—Irene Castle McLaughlin, of Chicago, left for Europe today on the steamship Aquitania.

"I'm through with the stage, dancing and the movies forever," she said, smiling at her husband.

Her husband handed her a book and she thrust it quickly under her arm. But its title was seen. It read: "Getting Ready to Be a Mother."

"I'll be back in four weeks," she called as she disappeared into her stateroom.

Her husband, Frederick McLaughlin, remained in New York.

FARMER-LABORITES
ERASE LA FOLLETTE
AS PARTY LEADER

Senator Eliminated as Possible Presidential Candidate at the Progressive Convention.

St. Paul, June 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Senator La Follette was eliminated tonight as a possible presidential candidate of the national farmer-labor progressive convention.

William Mahoney, a leader in the farmer-labor party of Minnesota, announced this, saying he had again been assured the Wisconsin senator did not wish his name to be even considered by the present gathering.

Mahoney announced that this word was taken to the nomination committee of the convention by John F. Sinclair, of Minneapolis. He explained that Mr. Sinclair was Senator La Follette's Minnesota representative.

McDonald Favored.

The nominations committee thereupon began making up a list of provisional presidential candidates with Duncan McDonald, Illinois labor leader, as a favorite. The convention, it was reported, would be asked to nominate a ticket which would remain in the field until Senator La Follette makes plain his status as a presidential candidate.

It also was announced that Mr. Sinclair had advised this convention to cooperate with the conference for progressive political action, in Cleveland, July 4. Mahoney said a committee to represent the St. Paul body probably would be sent to Ohio.

Farmer-Labor Party.

The platform committee, it turned out, was ready to report ahead of the organization committee. Joseph Manley, a workers' party delegate accredited to New York as chairman, explained the committee had laid a foundation for a platform, which he said was "for a farmer-labor party, not a communist party."

The platform started with a preamble which referred to the Declaration of Independence and asserted the rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness had been denied by the "financial oligarchy with its headquarters in Wall street."

The farmer-labor party declares its purpose to take over the government in the interest of the farmer and worker and end exploitation of the producing classes," said the document.

Public ownership was advocated for mines, power plants and transportation.

M'ADOO INVADERS
TAMMANY'S LAIR
TO DIRECT FIGHT

Makes Short Stump Speech to Huge Crowd Greeting Him in Waiting Room of Station.

BETRAYERS OF PUBLIC TRUST ARE ASSAILED

Candidate for Presidency Says There Is No Room in U. S. for Two Reactionary Parties.

BY RAYMOND CAPPER.

New York, June 18.—Declaring that the democratic party must be progressive, William G. McAdoo entered the lair of Tammany Wednesday to direct his fight for the nomination in person.

Greeted at the station by a huge throng which packed the great waiting room, McAdoo climbed upon a small wooden box and made a short stump speech. He insisted that there was no room for two reactionary parties and that the only chance of democratic success lay in championing progressive principles.

As the leaders of the party gathered here, it becomes increasingly apparent that the first objective of the Tammany-Taggart-Brennan combination is to kill off McAdoo with Al Smith. Once McAdoo is stopped, the combination will then consider whether it is possible to put Smith over, and if not, who should be the favored dark horse.

Two-Thirds Rule.

McAdoo strategists are canvassing the convention delegates preparatory to a test fight against the two-thirds rule. If McAdoo can throw it overboard, his chances of winning the nomination will be good. He insists he can win with two-thirds, but there is considerable skepticism elsewhere as to this claim.

George Brennan, the Illinois boss, arrived Wednesday, a few hours ahead of McAdoo. He will join the Smith forces. Together, they will concentrate for the present on preventing McAdoo from getting control of the rules committee, which will be the first battleground of the two-thirds rule row. Talk of the plan, the wet and dry issue and even that of candidacies was subordinated Wednesday to discussion of whether the

POLICE CONTINUE
TRAFFIC CRUSADE

Cases Made Wednesday Show Slight Increase; Only One Accident Reported.

Despite determined efforts of the police department to reduce the number of traffic law violations, a large number were reported Wednesday, leading to an equally large number of arrests. Both the figures showing drivers who paid fines in recorder's court and those arrested in new cases made Wednesday mounted higher than at any time during the past few weeks of the traffic crusade, although only one minor accident was reported.

A total of $903 in fines was paid by drivers found guilty in recorder's court when 30 were fined for speeding, 13 for violating traffic ordinances, 4 for reckless driving and 3 for violating the dimmer ordinance.

Cases were made against 62 drivers during the day, 25 being for speeding, 20 for violating traffic ordinances, 12 for reckless driving, 3 for violating the dimmer ordinance and 2 for driving automobiles while intoxicated.

Driver Released.

L. R. Wright, Jr., 17, of Westwood avenue, driver of the machine that Wednesday killed 3-year-old Caroline Massey, of 104 North Moreland avenue, Wednesday afternoon was released under a bond of $2,000, a charge of reckless driving being preferred against him.

The accident occurred in Moreland avenue near "Little Five Points," in Union Park, and was witnessed by a number of children and others who reported the accident as unavoidable. Caroline was the daughter of Mr.

Millions of Fish Killed;
Wilkinson Fears Epidemic

Following complaints from Wilkinson county that millions of fish in Commissioner creek and the Oconee river have been killed by dumping of poisonous refuse from a big paper mill at Gordon, State Game and Fish Commissioner Peter F. Twitty Wednesday night stated that he had dispatched a deputy commissioner to the scene to investigate conditions.

According to reports received by The Constitution from Toombsboro, the county seat of Wilkinson, fish in the famous fishing waters of Commissioner creek and the Oconee have been wiped out to such an extent that the streams have been rendered impure for a distance of thirty miles.

It was added that dead fish could be fished out of the water by baskets, and people of the section are said to have removed their livestock from the vicinity of the streams in order to avoid possible poisoning. An epidemic of sickness among the inhabitants is feared, it is added.

Complaints Made.

"My department on Tuesday received a complaint that fish are being killed in the streams mentioned," Commissioner Twitty said Wednesday night. "I lost no time in dispatching a deputy to the scene with instructions to report to me at once."

M'DOWELL CALLED
CRAZY BY DOCTORS
AT SECOND TRIAL

Relatives Also Take Stand To Tell of Insanity Prevalent in Family of Accused Youth.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Clearwater, Fla., June 18.—The fate of Frank McDowell, on trial here for the second time on a charge of murdering his mother at St. Petersburg some time during the night of February 19, last, will be placed in the hands of the jury late tomorrow, it was indicated here tonight when court recessed.

When recess was taken, the case of the state had been finished and all except probably one witness for the defense had been heard. Two witnesses, who testified as to the mental condition of the boy's relatives, and two physicians, who described the type of insanity they said the defendant suffered at the time he killed his mother and father, had been heard.

Dr. W. H. Spier, of Orlando, a specialist in the treatment of mental diseases, told the jury that in his opinion the defendant was a sufferer from dementia praecox at the time of the crime. Dr. Spier said he examined McDowell early today and found him in such state of mental deterioration that he was convinced the youth would not live longer than five or six years, and that the last two or three years of his life would be characterized by a total lack of mind. He was of the opinion that the boy did not know right from wrong when he committed the crime.

Several Relatives Insane.

Condition of several of McDowell's maternal kin were described to the jury by T. J. Williams, of Acworth, Ga., and G. B. McDowell, brother of the slain father. The names of half a dozen or more were given.

Prefers Prison to Telling
On Mabel, Says Chauffeur

GREER PLAYS ROLE OF KNIGHT OF OLD

Los Angeles, June 18.—"I'd rather go to the penitentiary for life than to tell on Mabel Normand."

Rushing gallantly as a knight of old to the rescue of his lady fair, Horace Greer, Mabel's bespectacled chauffeur, who is charged with the shooting of Courtland S. Dines, chose this dramatic last line as a method of fading out of the threatened line-light.

A muttered conversation between Greer and his attorney, S. S. Hahn, told the expectant court-room crowd that something was going to happen. On edge to get the latest inside story on "secrets of Hollywood," they were keenly disappointed when Hahn came forward with the statement that the defense would close its case without calling a single witness.

Denies Agreement.

Hahn denies having made an agreement with Mabel Normand to keep Greer from the witness stand.

CHILD CONFESSES TO FIRE CAUSING
LOSS OF 24 LIVES

Josephine Bertholme, Age 14, Says She Set Home Afire Without Assistance or Suggestion.

WANTED GIRL INMATES
"TO HAVE GOOD TIME"

Child Says She Didn't Like Place and Burned It Down So All Her Companions Could Go Home.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 18.—Because she wanted the girl inmates of the Hope Development school at Playa del Rey, near here, to be free "so they could have a good time like other girls," one of the inmates, 14 years old, set fire to the building May 31 which resulted in the loss of 24 lives.

This announcement was made by District Attorney Asa Keyes today. The girl was a former inmate of the home, a school for sub-normal children, and came to his office voluntarily with the announcement that she "had something to say." Keyes said, Her name is Josephine Bertholme and she now is an inmate of the juvenile hall here, Keyes said.

Didn't Like School.

The girl said she touched a match to a pile of kindling wood in the basement, Keyes announced.

"I didn't like the school, and I decided to burn it down so all the girls could go home," the girl's statement read, it was announced.

"I didn't mean to kill anybody. I just wanted all the girls to be free so they could have a good time like other girls."

The statement related how she went to bed on the night of the fire and after she heard the matrons go to their rooms, she slipped on a kimono and went to the kitchen in search of a match.

"I couldn't find the match," the statement said, "so I went back to my room. I remembered I had a broken match hidden in one of my boxes and I found it and again went downstairs."

Her statement told how she pulled out a sack of kindling wood, placed it under the rafters and set fire to it.

ANTI-KLAN PLANK URGED BY BRENNAN

Second Boom for Vice Presidency Comes When Group of Texans Arrive Urging Alvin M. Owsley.

New York, June 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—The second boom for the vice presidential place on the democratic ticket arrived tonight, carried by an enthusiastic group of Texans who opened headquarters for Alvin M. Owsley, former national commander of the American Legion, leaders of the Owsley movement contending that a southerner deserved a place on the ticket and that their candidate was the necessary offset to General Dawes for gaining the soldier vote.

After a long conference with Governor Smith this afternoon, George E. Brennan, Illinois leader, talked freely on almost every angle of the coming convention, but permitted himself to be quoted on only three topics.

"Must Condemn Klan."

"The democratic party," declared Mr. Brennan, "must incorporate in its platform a plank repudiating and condemning the Klan. It must be a straightforward declaration. It must denounce the Ku Klux Klan by name."

On the subject of whether the convention would be long in session or whether the nominations would quickly be made, Mr. Brennan said:

"My guess and my prediction is that the convention will take more than ten days before a presidential nominee is named. There will be no quick nomination."

MYSTERY SHROUDS
DEATH OF THREE IN QUARRY POOL

Chicago, June 18.—Mysteriously drowned Monday night in a quarry pool near Elmhurst, a suburb, the bodies of a middle aged man and woman and the nearly nude body of a young woman were recovered today.

The man was identified as George L. Townsend, of Chicago. The women were Mrs. Dorothy Barr and Mrs. Emma Mack. Mrs. Mack was clad only in silk underclothes. William A. Barr, husband of Mrs. Barr, is missing and the pool is being dragged in the belief that he may have been a member of the auto party with the other three.

BACHMAN TO FORCE
ANNEXATION ISSUE
IN JULY MEETING

Proposes To Extend Northern City Limits To Include Territory Along Peachtree Creek.

Annexation of a strip of territory approximately three miles long and one mile wide between the present northern limits of the city and Peachtree creek will be proposed to council at its first July meeting by Alderman J. R. Bachman, he announced Wednesday.

The announcement was made following a conference with Mayor Walter A. Sims after the mayor had vetoed the council resolution calling for annexation of a strip of land 2,000 feet wide along Peachtree road to a line 1,000 feet beyond Peachtree.

The mayor based his veto on the ground that the resolution did not cover enough territory and that Peachtree Hills should have been included. He said that many councilmen who opposed the annexation had not known that it was up for passage at the time it was adopted.

Alderman Bachman said, in announcing his new annexation plan, that he had supported the original panhandle annexation plan because it was a step in the right direction, although he expressed belief that it did not include enough territory.

The alderman said that the city should control both banks of Peachtree creek in order to work out a permanent solution for the sewerage problem.

May Be Necessary.

"Annexation of territory beyond Peachtree creek may be necessary ultimately," he asserted, "but at this time the even growth of the city requires inclusion only of the territory out to and including the northern bank."

Emory university, on the east, and Inman yards, on the west, will not be included in the Bachman annexation proposal. Part of Druid Hills, including the Druid Hills Golf club property, will be included, as well as Morningside, Peachtree Hills and other residence subdivisions.

Strong opposition has developed in council against all annexation proposals on the ground that the cost of extending city service to the new territory will be greater than the amount of revenue to be derived from taxes on the new territory.

Boys and Girl
Are Shot Down
By Dry Agents

Victims Near Death and Three Deputies Are Held Under Bond.

Olive Hill, Ky., June 18.—Two boys and a girl are dangerously wounded today as the result of buckshot wounds received Sunday night when an automobile in which they were riding was mistaken for a machine carrying liquor.

Constable William Kelly and three deputies are being held under heavy bond in connection with the shooting.

Nine pieces of shot were removed from wounds which Carrie Fultz, 13, sustained about the head, according to reports received from Upper Tygart, a postoffice station near where the children lived. Otis Johnson, 13, and John Evans, 12, were the other victims.

They were reported in a serious condition tonight and a physician attending them held little hope for their recovery.

The officers under bond had a warrant for a man believed to be a whisky runner and witnesses declare pump-guns, loaded with buckshot, were fired into the passing machine.

MEXICANS REFUSE TO REVOKE ACTION AGAINST CUMMINS

American Embassy Takes Over Archives and Effects of Legation at London's Request.

HOHLER'S MISSION WILL BE CANCELED

Cummins, British Charge, Reported To Have Been Recalled Wednesday by His Government.

Washington, June 18.—Great Britain has broken off all diplomatic relations with Mexico, as a result of the refusal of the Mexican government to rescind her order expelling Herbert C. Cummins, British agent for a number of years at Mexico City.

At the request of the Mexican government, the American embassy at Mexico City has taken over the archives and effects of the British legation, the state department announced Wednesday night. Great Britain made the request through the American embassy in London.

This means the breaking of diplomatic relations between the two governments, as it will result in the immediate recall of Cummins, in accordance with views of the mission of Sir Thomas Hohlér, who was to go to Mexico soon to open the way for a full resumption of relations between the two governments.

Mexico Flatly Refuses.

This action came Wednesday after Mexico had flatly refused finally to withdraw its order expelling Cummins.

It follows a long, aggravated state of affairs between the two governments, brought on when Mexico objected some weeks ago to alleged "discourtesies" of Cummins, and asked for his recall. This Great Britain refused, and Mexico ordered that he be expelled.

The announcement from the state department said:

"At the request of the British government, transmitted through the American ambassador at London, the American charge d'affaires of Mexico, Mr. H. S. Arthur Schoenfeld, has been instructed today to take over the archives and effects of the British legation in Mexico City, and to inform the Mexican government of this action, as an act of courtesy."

Breaks Present Relations.

While this action of Great Britain means the breaking of present relations between the English government and Mexico, and blocks the way for a resumption of full relations for which the Hohlér mission was to pave the way, it is not known here whether consular officers will be recalled.

Great Britain has never recognized the present Mexican government. In the absence of a British minister, Cummins has acted as the agent of Great Britain for a number of years.

In a note from Mexico to Great Britain, made public by the Mexican embassy here Wednesday, it was asked that Cummins be recalled immediately.

"In order to obviate further difficulties," the British government was informed, the Mexican government "would consider as a sincere demonstration of his majesty's government, the immediate recall of Mr. Cummins, fully realizing as in previous instances, that this attitude of defense of the national honor would mean the cancellation of Mr. Holler's mission, leaving to his majesty's government to determine what it may deem convenient for its interests, the future relations."

Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain, in an interview with the Mexican consul at London on Monday, had informed the Mexican representative that if Mexico insisted on expelling Cummins, that the agent would be recalled immediately and that the Holler mission would be cancelled, the statement from the Mexican embassy here stated.

CUMMINS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN RECALLED.

Mexico City, June 18.—It is reported in reliable sources here that Herbert C. Cummins, British chargé d'affaires, has been recalled by his government.

With Britain turning over the affairs of her embassy to the United States, as reported in Washington dispatches, it is assumed that the next step would be to recall her representative. That would be the usual course in the severance of international relations.

The British consul declines to comment, but an official of the ministry of foreign affairs states that Cummins has been recalled on passports, as Mexico refused to accept any other solution of the problem.

It is understood that Cummins will go to New York to take charge of the archives in the British consulate there. The foreign colony here believes that he will leave within the next 24 hours.

Meanwhile, British oil companies and other British interests here are left without any representative of the British government in Mexico City.

The British consul on the report that Cummins had been withdrawn, called a meeting of members to decide whether representations should be made to England with a view to having a British representative sent here.

NEW YORK EVENING POST

M'ADOO PREDICTS DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

New York, June 18.—William G. McAdoo, in a formal statement issued tonight, forecast victory for the democratic party through the progressive movement within the party. He said that throughout the country there was a demand that the democrats should commit themselves unequivocally to constructive reforms.

"There are certain things," Mr. McAdoo said in part, "which the democratic party must fight for uncompromisingly. International cooperation for the purpose of abolishing war and thus maintaining peace; cutting down or elimination of excessive military and naval armaments and restoration of world wide economic improvement; broadening the base of prosperity among our own people so that, as far as possible, no citizen shall be impoverished between the cost to the farmer of the things he consumes and the price he obtains for the things he sells.

"As essential steps in this direction the tariff must be reconstructed downward and the railroads must be reformed so as to provide adequate and efficient service at lower rates. Foreign trade must be re-established and widened; the natural resources of the nation must be protected, particularly water-power, which must be developed in the interest of the people and not exploited for private advantage. Child labor should be protected and equality of rights, civil, economic and social should be accorded to women.

"Genuine economy in government must be practiced and taxes must be progressively reduced to the lowest possible level consistent with efficient government and justice to deserving employees in the public service. Justice to labor, the farmer and the people must be substituted for the policy of advantage to predatory interests constantly practiced by this administration.

Fair and Generous Spirit.

"The contest over nominations will, I hope, be conducted in a fair and generous spirit between the rival aspirants. We must remember that it is not enough merely to nominate candidates. We must so conduct ourselves that we can elect them in November, 1924. If there should be any who seek merely to obstruct the will of the rank and file of the party or to satisfy personal ambitions or to create schisms, I am confident that they will find neither sympathy nor support among the great body of the patriotic and unselfish men and women who come to New York impressed with the serious responsibility which rests upon them and determined to discharge it in good faith to their constituents and with fidelity to the party."

When Mr. McAdoo was interrogated again as to his attitude towards the two-thirds rule, he said:

"It is immaterial to me—it is a matter for the convention to decide."

M'ADOO INVADERS TAMMANY'S LAIR

convention will upset its traditional two-thirds requirement.

There was a Rooseveltian tang about McAdoo's spectacular arrival. New York is regarded as hostile territory, but McAdoo's friends packed the big railroad station and sent roars of cheers through the waiting room as the candidate plowed his way through the dense throng with the aid of a cordon of strapping policemen. He arrived at 3:30 o'clock and was met by his manager, David Ladd Rockwell, and a group of McAdoo lieutenants, all wearing handbags inscribed "Mac'll Do."

Leads Little Daughter.

McAdoo came out of his car leading his little daughter, Mary Faith, by the hand. Mrs. McAdoo, wearing mourning for her late father, Woodrow Wilson, followed leading Ellen, the other small daughter. The crowd pressed so close that McAdoo's little Mary Faith and the child, wearing a perky little blue bonnet, looked out calmly over the throng as she rode along on the tall shoulders of her daddy. Ellen and her mother were nearly trampled in the jam. Only much work by the police held the crowd back.

As McAdoo reached the center of the waiting room the crowd began to call for a speech. A porter brought a small box which resembled a soap box, and McAdoo climbed on this—first sending the two children outside to escape the crowd.

Principles, Not Personalities.

"I want to thank you for this wonderful welcome," Mr. McAdoo said. "We live in California now but we will never lose our love for our former home. I take this demonstration not so much as personal to me as evidence of the interest of patriotic citizens in the issues of this momentous campaign. This campaign must not be fought out on personalities, but on principles. There are certain things that need redress and the solvent of progressivism if prosperity is to be restored and the immortal principles of Thomas Jefferson given vitality.

"We have got to have equal opportunity for all again and special privilege no more to anyone. Never has this issue been so vital and the people so determined that those guilty of betrayal of the public trust shall be driven out of office."

Here a group of photographers broke through the police cordon and asked McAdoo to hold still for a moment.

This is a two-ring circus—posing for pictures and making a speech at the same time," he said with a laugh.

Resuming his speech, McAdoo said: "If the democratic party is true to its principles there inevitably will be a great victory in 1924. It is to seize this great opportunity, it deserves defeat and it will get it. There isn't room in this country for two reactionary parties. We have one—fine reactionary party—the republican party. We must oppose it with progressive, organized democracy."

McAdoo Almost Mobbed.

Hundreds broke through the police ring to shake McAdoo's hand and only heroic efforts by the police, assisted by several of the McAdoo staff, saved the candidate and Mrs. McAdoo from being badly accosted. Both smiled helplessly as the police fought back the crowd and jammed a path through to the station entrance where a band of fifteen automobiles were waiting. Falling in behind an escort of mounted and motorcycle police, the McAdoo procession, decorated with banners, moved cross-town through well-lined streets to the Vanderbilt hotel, where campaign headquarters have been established. Here another great crowd was waiting to give a demonstration.

Sharply in contrast to this spectacular entry, George E. Brennan, Illinois leader and keystone of the anti-McAdoo fight, slipped silently into town. Only a couple of political lieutenants met him and he hurriedly retreated into his room, locking himself in for the long grind of conferences. As usual he refused to talk.

Party Leaders Arrive.

Tom Love, national committeeman of Texas; Edward F. Gollra, national committeeman for Missouri; Walter Moore, of Alabama, and Ed Moore, Cox manager in 1920, arrived Wednesday. Three big figures are due Thursday—William J. Bryan, Taggart, Indiana boss, and Joe Tumulty, who was Woodrow Wilson's white house adviser.

In reply to the famous Coolidge slogan, democrats circulated fans bearing the slogan: "Keep Cool With McAdoo."

As a counter-irritant to the Smith atmosphere, movies showing McAdoo in broncho-busting costume are being shown at the local theaters. The campaign headquarters will issue its own newspaper during the convention. It will be called "Progressive Democracy" and distributed to delegates just before the convention meets each day.

"The purpose is to give the delegates unbiased information," a McAdoo lieutenant said. The real purpose is to offset the friendly Smith news in some of the New York newspapers.

Smith forces are saving their fireworks. The governor is remaining in a downtown hotel. An open meeting has been announced by the club for June 27, and will be held at the Wigwam, 81 Central avenue. A number of candidates for office in the fall primaries will speak at the July 27 meeting.

Mrs. Mary Jones is publicity director for the club.

POLITICAL CAULDRON NOW BOILING IN NEW YORK

New York, June 18.—The arrival of William G. McAdoo from California and George Brennan from Chicago, combined with sweltering weather today to set boiling the political cauldron which is brewing for the opening of the democratic national convention next Tuesday.

These were the outstanding features of a day that was crowded with events of pre-convention significance. Others were:

The development of an increasing aversion on the part of newly arriving McAdoo men to join his fight for abrogation of the two-thirds rule.

A conversation by Governor Smith's backers that if imposition of the majority rule were attempted, a counter-attack would be launched against the statesman, by which many of the McAdoo delegates are bound.

Indications that Brennan, leader of democrats in Illinois, whom McAdoo must credit with having started the movement to put the convention under majority rule, also favored abrogating the custom of voting certain state delegations as units.

Quarrel for Underwood.

Establishment of headquarters for Oscar Underwood and John W. Davis, candidates for the presidency and of George L. Berry, vice presidential aspirant.

Allocation of the delegations' positions on the floor of Madison Square Garden and detailed completion of arrangements within the great auditorium.

Announcement of Senator Copeland, who heretofore has been looked upon as a potential "dark horse" candidate for the presidency, that he will, after a tour of New England, where he received a "grand reception," be "all for Smith."

General agreement among members of the national committee, nearly all of whom are on the scene, that Senator Walsh, of Montana, would be awarded the permanent convention chairmanship because of the great service he has just done the country and the party through his activities at Washington.

The last serious job of the delegations' seating subcommittee, headed by Isadore Dockweiler, of California, was completed after hours of discussion and a long session at Madison Square garden at which virtually every delegate and party worker in town appeared to plead for choice places for his state or territorial standard.

Seating Arrangements.

As the standards stood tonight Missouri and Ohio were opposite in the two aisles directly fronting the speaker's stand. Behind Missouri and stretching back to the boxes were arranged in this order: California, Montana, Alabama, Indiana, North Carolina, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Maine, Back of Ohio were New Jersey, New York, Tennessee, Connecticut, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands.

Wisconsin's standard was at the front at the right of the speaker's position, ahead of Illinois, Minnesota, Kentucky and New Mexico. At the left of the stand were Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Iowa, Porto Rico and the District of Columbia. Since several of large delegations extended from a center aisle through three tiers of seats to the outer edges, other states and territories were scattered backward to the right and left.

Under the present seating arrangement, states coming with candidates or possible "dark horses" and states with big delegations, are readily accessible to the speakers' eye and voice. They will have little advantage over the others, however, for a double cluster of 24 electric voice-amplifiers will be suspended above the speaker's head and the whole delegates' section so close to the speaker's stand, as well as below it, that identification will be easy for him.

manage such industries also was advocated.

Repeal Banking Acts.

"We demand repeal of the federal reserve and banking acts and in place thereof declare for government ownership and operation of all banking institutions," was a plank which brought a yell of approval.

"Organization of labor" the platform advocated protection to the right of workers to organize unions, abolition of injunctions and declared against "use of military forces against workers."

A federal law for the eight-hour day and federal amendments to prevent child labor and to provide general compulsory education were advocated. Other social legislation favored included minimum wage acts, old age pensions and insurance, the funds for which would be raised by profit, inheritance and income taxes. Compensation for prospective mothers was favored.

Under "farmers' program" the platform advocated legislation for "loans to farmers in distress without interest to government or banking institutions and to finance and insure the products of the land."

Plan of Procedure.

The organization committee agreed upon a plan of procedure advocated by the unionists and labor element. The plan called for no immediate organization of a national party as such, but for a provisional body to prepare the way for a national gathering after the November election to perfect a permanent body. Meanwhile, it was proposed, activities would be centered around the building up of state bodies.

The committee recommended that the provisional body negotiate with any other group favoring organization of a national farmer-labor party with a view to agreeing upon a single set of candidates and a platform. Such other groups would be given representation in the interim organization. It was explained by Delegate Mahony this would give a chance for the St. Paul convention to back La Follette in case he becomes an active candidate in the Cleveland conference. In case he does not, a provisional ticket, to be nominated here, would be placed in the field.

Mr. Mahony said that adoption of this plan by the committee was evidence of the sincerity of the communists in carrying out the promise made by W. Z. Foster at the morning session, not to attempt to swing the convention into the control of the workers' party.

OBSERVATION CLUB IN WEEKLY MEET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Women's Observation club held its weekly meeting Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. E. N. Gibbs, 145 Hill avenue. Various current subjects, including the local and national political situations, were discussed. The club was organized in order that members may keep posted on questions of the day, and political, civic and other questions are subjects of lectures and discussions at the meetings.

Next week's meeting will be held Tuesday night, June 24, and will be in the nature of a dinner, to be given at a downtown hotel. An open meeting has been announced by the club for June 27, and will be held at the Wigwam, 81 Central avenue. A number of candidates for office in the fall primaries will speak at the July 27 meeting.

your government in aiding its execution."

Difference One of Modes.

The substantial difference between the exclusion provision and the gentlemen's agreement, the note continues, lies in what President Coolidge described in his statement at the time he signed the immigration bill, as the determination of congress to exercise "its prerogative in the matter of legislation the control of immigration instead of leaving it to international arrangements."

"It is not understood that this prerogative is called in question, but rather, your government expressly recognizes that 'it lies within the inherent sovereign power of each state to limit and control immigration to its own domains' an authority which it is believed the Japanese government has failed to exercise in its own discretion with respect to the admission of aliens and the conditions and location of their settlement within its borders," Secretary Hughes' note continues.

U. S. Does Not Feel Bound.

"This government does not feel that it is limited to an international arrangement or that by virtue of the existing understanding (the gentlemen's agreement) or of the negotiation which has been conducted in the past with the Japanese government, it is in any sense lost or impaired the full liberty of action which it would otherwise have in this matter. On the contrary, that freedom with respect to the control of immigration, which is an essential element of sovereignty and entirely compatible with the friendly sentiments which animate our international relations, this government in the course of these negotiations always fully reserved."

The note then quotes the clause from Article II of the commercial treaty of 1907, by which Japan stipulated specifically the reservation of the right to control "the immigration of laborers" by law. It adds that when this commercial treaty of 1911 was under negotiation this clause was eliminated at the instance of the Japanese government because of the existence of the gentlemen's agreement of 1907, by which Japan undertook, on her own motion, to restrict such emigration to the United States.

Refers to Correspondence.

Reference also is made to memoranda exchanged between the Japanese embassy and the state department, dated October 19, 1910, and January 23, 1911, in which the state department acquiesced in the Japanese suggestion for elimination of the clause under discussion but with the stipulation that the government of the United States does so with all necessary reserves and without prejudice to the inherent sovereign right of either country to limit and control immigration to its own domains or possessions."

On February 8, 1911, the embassy replied in a memorandum which stated that "the imperial government concurs in the understanding of the proposal."

How to build up your Weight

TO be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S. since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

RELATING TO THE QUESTION OF IMMIGRATION

Secretary Hughes' note points out that this correspondence, constituted a "distinct understanding" between the two governments of the right of each to control immigration and adds that the advisability of dealing with the question by legislative enactment "necessarily remains within the legislative power of this government to determine," a power which congress now has exercised.

The note advises the Japanese government that since the exclusion provision takes effect July 1, 1924, the Washington government must consider the government of Japan as released from any further obligation under the gentlemen's agreement as from that date. It concludes with the assertion that recognition of the right of each government to legislate in control of immigration "should not derogate in any degree from the mutual good will and cordial friendship which have always characterized the relations of the two countries."

"ADVENTURES IN GEOGRAPHY" The South Seas

"A magazine story settled it", writes Harry Leon Wilson. "Of the island girl in this, it was said that 'her face was mocking, elfish, faery'. (I am always to be had when they spell fairy with an 'e'.) Beautiful, unearthly—the girl was all that. And of course there were beach-combers coming haply upon a case of gin washed ashore from a wreck—square-faced gin, at that; native huts, breadfruit, copra, beche de mer, bananas both eating and cooking, and crystal-clear lagoons to mirror palms."

Right there Mr. Wilson started for the South Seas.

A COCKEYED CONGRESS

There is something radically wrong with Government when the convening of Congress, to which the nation should look for sound and constructive legislation, is regarded with apprehension and its adjournment is hailed with relief; when unsettlement and uneasiness pervade the business world during the session, and confidence returns and rehabilitation begins only after adjournment; when the country surveys the mess and consoles itself with taking stock of its resources and decides that perhaps somehow, someday, it can stand the gaff.

Savannah Caravan, Boosting State Port, Continues Journey

Rome, Ga., June 18.—After breakfast and an exchange of felicitations at Shorter college, the Savannah state port boosters, numbering approximately 100, engaged in touring principal cities of the state, visited schools and industries here and departed for Macon.

En route the party stopped at Cedartown, Carrollton and several other towns during the day.

The welcome here included a reception party at the railroad station and an automobile procession that moved through the city, to Shorter college. The procession was headed by a United States marine corps band.

Speakers dwelt upon commercial benefits to be derived by the state if the port at Savannah is developed by a state municipal bond issue.

WAYCROSS TO FETE SAVANNAH VISITORS.

Waycross, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) John W. Bennett, former United States attorney for the southern division of Georgia, has been selected by the Waycross Chamber of Commerce to deliver the address of welcome to delegates of the Savannah "good will" tour, which will reach Waycross at 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

Visitors will spend three hours in this city. The first feature will be a breakfast at a local hotel. The welcome address and short talks by Savannah men will follow.

Members of the chamber of commerce will take the visitors on a motor drive through the city.

RADIO MEN ABANDON WORD 'BROADCASTING'

Atlantic City, N. J., June 18.—The word "broadcasting" was officially abandoned as a radio connotation by the radio section of the Associated Manufacturers of Electrical Supplies at its annual convention here, of welcome to delegates of the Savannah "good will" tour, which will reach Waycross at 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

"Broadcasting" will henceforth be the term applied to indicate the spreading of sound through the air.

The radio supply manufacturers made the change on a recommendation of a committee which reported that the word "broadcasting," according to the dictionary, "has to do with the sowing of seed or material substances."

STILL NOMINATED LABOR CANDIDATE

Luther Still, member of the Atlanta Typographical union, and for many years a member of the composing room staff of The Constitution, was unanimously nominated Wednesday night as the labor candidate for the legislature from Fulton county. The nomination was made at a mass meeting of delegates to the Atlanta Federation of Trades, held in the Labor Temple, and Mr. Still's name was chosen after Walter C. Caraway withdrew his name. Mr. Caraway seconded the nomination of Mr. Still. Before adjournment Robert E.

LUTHER H. STILL.

Gann, permanent chairman of the meeting, was authorized to appoint a steering committee of 15 members of organized labor whose duty it will be to arrange for the coming campaign. This committee will hold its first meeting Friday night.

The nomination of Mr. Still came after several efforts had been made to adjourn the meeting because, it was stated, of a misunderstanding as to whether it was a mass meeting of a representative gathering of delegates from various affiliated organizations. It was also urged that the number of delegates present should not select a man as the choice of all organized labor. Chairman Gann ruled that the gathering was a mass meeting, and further opposition to a nomination was removed by those opposing the selection of a candidate pledging themselves to support a candidate should one be named.

Upshaw Present.
Congressman W. D. Upshaw, who was present, urged that a candidate be named for the legislature, saying that the public would expect such action after the news had been sent out that a meeting was to be held for that purpose.

Mr. Still is one of the best-known labor men in the city, having held various offices in the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the printers' union. His most recent accomplishment in the interest of labor was his success in securing an increase in wages for street car men in the 1924 contract. Mr. Still was an arbitrator acting with Murphy, Candler and Edwin F. Johnson, the latter as umpire.

SPANISH NOBLEMAN, THOUGHT DEAD, ALIVE

Los Angeles, June 18.—Between wondering whether he had obtained sufficient publicity to insure success in motion pictures and reminiscing concerning several beatings he claimed to have received because of friendship with a famous actress, Count Miguel Escoto, known also as Mario Escobar, experienced a hectic day.

Escoto, a suave, handsome Spaniard who came to Hollywood some months ago with the intention of becoming famous in the film colony, did not know until early Wednesday that he had been hunted as a murder victim.

He could readily understand the story of a convicted prisoner in the county jail. The man knew of several times when he had been beaten because of his friendship for Barbara La Marr. Escoto said, and he did not wonder the prisoner believed him dead. "I met the lady first on a coast steamer," the debonair nobleman said. "I gave her my card, being impelled by gallantry which I always have practiced. Her husband found the card and then the trouble began."

"I was waylaid in the city by three men who told me to leave the city or I would be killed. That incident put me in bad for six weeks. I have been threatened on other occasions."

Morris Nodler, the prisoner who claimed to have seen Escoto killed, identified the living man. Relatives of the actress' husband, accused of plotting Escoto's death, were released.

SAILOR ANNOUNCES INVENTION TO SEND PICTURES BY RADIO

Mobile, Ala., June 18.—Completing a two-year investigation of the possibility of sending photographs through the air, with the assistance of the radio, Alfred Marchant, former sailor, of New York city, announced today he had perfected the invention and is ready to "demonstrate it if given assurance that protection will be given the secret."

Marchant refused to divulge any part of the method used to "broadcast pictures," fearing his secret would get out and that he would lose the benefits of two years' study and work.

"It is possible to transfer any photograph from one city to another through the air, with the assistance of the radio," he said, "and if given protection, shall be willing to demonstrate the invention."

WILLIFORD NAMED AS STATE DEPUTY OF MACCABEES

L. L. Williford, well-known Atlanta business man, Wednesday accepted appointment as a deputy state commander of Maccabees, according to announcement by R. E. Leatherman, state commander. The new deputy has been assigned to the Atlanta territory under District Manager Volney B. Jones, and will enter upon his duties at once.

Mr. Williford is proprietor of the Commercial Business agency, and is secretary-treasurer of the Atlanta Restaurant association. His new work will not conflict with other business connections, it is stated.

The new deputy commander has been very active in Maccabee circles during the past several months, being credited with more than two-score new dues-paying members. His work, Commander Leatherman said, was very effective in the international membership campaign in which Georgia Maccabees won the big silver loving cup, in his new position Mr. Williford will give much time, it is announced, to the victory class initiation preliminaries, in which leading Georgia, including Governor Walker and Mayor Sims, will be admitted July 1. The elaborate ceremony will formally open the new Maccabee temple, formerly known as Roseland, at 217 1/2 Peachtree street, and plans are being made to entertain 5,000 southern members of the order.

300 MEN FIGHTING BIG FOREST FIRE

Denver, June 18.—A furious forest fire, started by a careless camper's failure to extinguish his camp fire, is sweeping through the Arapahoe National forest, 50 miles west of Denver, tonight.

Three hundred fighters, led by J. V. Lehighou, forest supervisor of Hot Sulphur Springs, are battling the flames.

The west portal of the Moffat railroad tunnel, now under construction through the continental divide, is only a quarter of a mile from the blaze. Reports to the Moffat tunnel commission said the wind was blowing the fire away from the camp near the portal where hundreds of workmen make their homes. Unless the wind should change, it was said the tunnel would be in no danger.

According to meager information received at the office of the forest service, the fire started about 2 o'clock this afternoon. Fanned by a high wind the flames spread rapidly. At 6 o'clock tonight, reports from the fire indicated that several thousand acres of timber already had been burned and the fire still was reported as burning furiously.

Fire Fighters Aid.
Boulder, Colo., June 18.—Led by Fire Chief Johnson and government forestry development officials, a crew of fire fighters left here late today to aid in stemming the forest fire raging near the Moffat tunnel. Smoke from the fires 22 miles distant from Boulder obscured the afternoon sun here and cast the town into darkness.

CRIM DENIES GIVING REPORT TO DUPONTS

Washington, June 18.—Officials of the department of justice continued today the defense of their administration before the senate Daugherty investigating committee with the Old Hickory Powder company case at Nashville, Tenn., assuming a position of prominence.

John H. Crim, former assistant attorney general, was recalled, while Henry W. Anderson, head of the war transactions section of the department, and his assistants, also were examined on the subject.

George W. Storck, an accountant for the department of justice, who was assigned to a preliminary investigation of the case, declared he had reported to Mr. Crim that the government should recover between $5,000,000 and $20,000,000 from the DuPont Engineering company, if it obtained evidence which he said was in existence. Later, he said, he found his confidential report in the possession of attorneys for the DuPonts.

Mr. Crim flatly denied that he had furnished, or caused to be furnished, to the DuPonts the Storck report, as did Mr. Anderson.

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, and Senator Jones, republican, Washington, read extracts from Storck's testimony, given the committee several months ago, in which the accountant declared Crim and Anderson were present at conferences with the DuPont representatives, in which Storck found out that the DuPonts had his memoranda. The two witnesses both said they considered Storck mistaken, although Crim said he considered Storck "one of the best men in the government service."

Crim told the committee he had regarded Storck's findings "as most serious," because the "people involved were powerful." He endeavored, he said, just before leaving office to get the case organized for prosecution.

The furnishing of the information to the DuPonts about what the government was working up was "precisely what Anderson and I were trying to prevent," he said.

Anderson explained the system adopted in the department of justice for considering civil suits in war fraud cases. His own attention for many months, he said, had been taken up with the preparation of the chemical foundation proceedings.

SUMMER VISITORS ENJOY ST. AUGUSTINE

St. Augustine, Fla., June 18.—(Special.) Summer vacationists who are enjoying the "Land of Sunshine and Flowers" at this time from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, have found that the "Oldest City" in America is as attractive and delightful in summer months as in the winter, if not more so, and that historic points of interest, surrounded by myriads of beautiful flowers, are at their best.

These visitors are surprised to find that although founded in 1565, the city of St. Augustine has passed through all stages of civilization of the past four centuries, without losing its historic charm and beauty, in spite of the fact that it has kept pace with time.

Recreation is easily found in St. Augustine. Golf, tennis, fishing and bathing are permanently on the entertainment schedule. Three wonderful beaches, within ten minutes ride by auto and boat from the center of the city, and the best golf climate to be found, and unsurpassed scenery allow the visitor a veritable program of vacation enjoyment, as well as being time well spent.

The earliest attempt at sewing machinery of which there is any authentic record was in 1755, when a machine was patented in England by Charles F. Weisenthal.

WOMAN FLEEING TO DRUG STORE EXCITES CROWD

Seemed Much Distressed Over Condition At Her Home— Officer Investigates

"Oh, it's all right now, or soon will be," answered the excited little woman to the inquiry of the officer who had followed her in the mad dash to the drug store and pushed his way through the crowd that had gathered.

"You see, my husband brought home a microscope and it was very interesting until we put a fly under it. But when I saw that fly's feet and realized it had been dragging that fifth over our dishes and food, and oh, most shocking of all, on my baby's face, I just couldn't endure the thought.

"So I ran over here to get some Fly-Flu quick. I am not going to let any more filthy flies stay in my house."

"You've got sense," replied the officer. "There's never a fly, roach, mosquito, or any other insect pest that lives around our house, since we began keeping Fly-Flu on hand."

"Fly-Flu is deadly destructive to every flying, crawling insect or bug. Substitutes can't and won't do the work and are often dangerous to use. Besides being an instant destroyer of all insect life, Fly-Flu is a deodorant—it sweetens everything it touches, but is odorless, harmless and perfectly harmless to humans and plants.

RALSTON WILL WIN, CARAWAY PREDICTS

Washington, June 18.—Senator Samuel J. Ralston, of Indiana, will be the democratic nominee for president, Senator T. H. Caraway, of Arkansas, who will be a delegate to the democratic convention, predicted at a meeting of Sergeant Jasper post, American legion, held in the City club.

Senator Caraway believed that there will be a few preliminaries between William Gibbs McAdoo and Governor Smith, of New York, but that while one may be able to command a majority neither will be able to muster the two-thirds majority required in the democratic conventions.

Mr. Caraway said that McAdoo has been "sounding out" the delegates to see whether or not the two-thirds rule can be waived in favor of a majority rule. After these "preliminaries," Senator Caraway prognosticated, Ralston will be brought forward to win.

The democratic candidate will win in the fall, he declared, unless the democrats make "fools" of themselves at the convention, which he declared they are more liable to do than the republicans because the democratic party is more varied. If they do win, he said, it will not be primarily because they picked a better candidate or formulated a superior platform to that of the republicans, but because the latter party has subordinated its leaders.

Mr. Caraway told the legionnaires that the world war settled nothing. Until the present tangle in European affairs is unraveled, he said, there can be no peace in America. He predicted that unless international affairs are settled so that the continental animosities are eliminated or some method is evolved to control them this generation or the next will see the greatest war in history.

GEORGIA'S TOTAL OF FEDERAL AID MILEAGE IS 5,628

Georgia has a total of 5,628 miles of federal aid highways, according to disclosures in a statement just issued by the United States department of agriculture. The same reports put the total of Alabama federal aid highways at 3,872 miles.

According to the act of 1921, each state highway department was to designate a system of roads, not exceeding 7 per cent of the total rural mileage of the state, for improvement with federal aid, the government to pay up to 50 per cent of the cost price. Appropriations for federal road building since 1919, the report says, have totaled $540,000,000, of which Georgia has received $12,456,574, and Alabama $9,710,910.

Total mileage completed in Georgia up to April 30 last, the bureau of roads reports, was 1,200, and under construction, 103 miles, and funds available, $129,005.

On the complete system for the United States the report states that an estimate based on incomplete studies at the end of last year shows about 110,000 miles of surfaced roads, 700 miles of graded roads, leaving 110,000 miles yet to be surfaced.

MRS. ALBERT THORNTON ON ROAD COMMITTEE Birmingham, Ala., June 18.—The United States Good Roads association has appointed a committee of twenty prominent men and women from the various states to appear before the platform committee of the democratic party in New York next week and urge that a plank be inserted in the platform recommending continuation of federal aid for building good roads throughout the nation. Among the women who have been honored with membership on the committee are Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, of Atlanta; Mrs. Marie Bankhead Owen, Montgomery, Ala.; Mrs. Lindsay Cleland, Winchester, Ky.; Mrs. Florence Johnston, Alliquippa, N. M.; Mrs. C. M. Richards, Lake Charles, La.

The committee will meet in New York on Monday, June 23, for the purpose of organizing and arranging to perform its duties. J. A. Rountree, director general of the United States Good Roads association, is chairman of the committee and is now in New York arranging details of the meeting.

GEORGIA SCHOOLS GET $50,000 ADDITIONAL

An additional official warrant for $50,000 for the common schools of the state was issued Wednesday by Governor Clifford Walker, making the second warrant of this size given to the schools above their regular appropriation this year.

Under the appropriation bill of the legislature schools receive 50 per cent of the state's revenue. A specified amount is set aside by direct appropriation, then all state income above double this amount is directed to be divided by two and half of it given to schools.

The revenue of the state this year has been $200,000 in excess of the amount covered in the direct school appropriation, therefore the governor has turned over the additional 50 per cent, or $100,000, to them. This is the first time an amount of this size has been spent on the common schools of the state in any one year.

It provides that each ward shall be represented by one councilman, instead of two as at present, and that the 12 wards be divided into six aldermanic districts each to be represented by one alderman, instead of having one alderman from each ward as at present.

NOT BY McADOO'S CONSENT.

The old reliable New York Times, the news columns of which are looked upon as always dependable and faithful to facts, leads a general story on the approaching democratic national convention with the following paragraph that is as significant as it is astounding:

"The campaign managers of William G. McAdoo apparently have decided to risk his candidacy upon an attempt to do away with the rule requiring two-thirds of the vote of the democratic national convention to nominate a candidate for president, seemingly believing that they already have a majority of the delegates for him and doubting their ability to get two-thirds."

If this is true, surely Mr. McAdoo's campaign managers are proceeding without their candidate's knowledge or consent.

The "two-thirds rule" for nominating in the democratic party is not only as old and as traditional as the party itself, having been created at the first national convention in 1832 by request of Andrew Jackson, who was first nominated under it, but it is representative of the fundamental faith of the party.

It is obvious that with the "unit rule" applied in state delegations, as results from primary or convention "instructions" to vote the state unit, a bare majority in each of a few populous states, such as New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio, can absolutely dictate a nomination or a party policy contrary to the overwhelming rank and file of the party's electors in the nation at large.

It must be understood that the strength of the state units is based upon the number of congressional districts, and the number of congressional districts in each state is determined by the census population figures, the congressional population unit now being approximately 230,000. That being the case, to abrogate the two-thirds rule without destroying the present system of state units will be tantamount to destroying one of the chief reasons that exist for the democratic party. It would obliterate the only well-defined line of demarcation today between the democratic and the republican party.

In that it would invite tens of thousands of present-day democrats, who are democrats not on any particular economic or foreign policy, but solely because they believe in the broad principles of state rights, local self-government and the unbridled voice of all the people in government—who believe in government "of and by and for the people"—actually out of the party ranks. There is no mistake about it.

As astounding as is the unqualified opening news paragraph from The Times, as quoted, the following paragraph, carried later in the story, is even more astounding:

"The program of the McAdoo managers, if their present plans are not changed, is to try to do away with the two-thirds rule and at the same time to keep the unit rule, under which, in the belief of Mr. McAdoo's supporters, the vote of half a dozen or more states is to be kept solid for McAdoo."

It is unfair to Mr. McAdoo to assume that he will be a party to any such high-handed procedure for a purely selfish motive.

If Mr. McAdoo is nominated by time-honored regularity, as has been every democratic nominee since the birth of the party, there can be no doubt that he will be a formidable candidate in the November elections.

But to be nominated by such a ruse as his managers are alleged to be planning will put him at a distinct disadvantage.

The Constitution does not believe that Mr. McAdoo approves either of these suggested plans.

POLITICS IN FRANCE.
The swiftness with which France elects presidents will take the breath of an American politician.

Tuesday, June 10, the senate and chamber voted against President Millerand. The next day, true to proverbial Latin impulse, he resigned. Thursday the caucuses were held to choose his successor. Friday afternoon M. Gaston Doumergue, a compromise candidate, was elected for a term of seven years.

Although he too may find it expedient to resign before the swinging pendulum of French politics comes to a plumb.

In France there are two elements striving for mastery, very much as in this country today—the conservative and the radical. Millerand, as is Poincare, for a long time his premier, are of the ultra-conservative mold. Herriot and Painleve are both radicals—the latter of the Debs, or certainly of the La Follette type, the former less so, but nevertheless too far from conservative to please the majority of people, who sought a safe middle ground. And Doumergue stands upon that middle ground, or so it is thought.

Therefore, neither the socialists nor the radical-socialists won except that they brought about the retirement of Millerand.

By the French plan of election by the national assembly it is entirely possible for a candidate to win independently without the support of party.

Under a popular electorate system, by state units, as in this country it has never yet been possible to elect an independent.

Indeed this is a party government, and aside from the two major parties, all others have been of meteoric and punitive origin, or to foster the political ideals of some specific group for the political effect in certain states or sections.

As to France, the election has at least quieted for the time a bitter personal political fight—one of the bitterest ever known in continental Europe.

That much accomplished is in itself of great value, especially as the balance of Europe it waiting on France's action on the Dawes report and many other crucial economic issues involving international relations.

The new man in France seems to fit in very well. He is colorless and moderate; whereas Millerand and his avowed opponents were all extremists of either the right or the left.

This does not appear to be a good year for radicals in politics.

THE RED "CONVENTION."

The farmer-labor party national convention at St. Paul appears to be a second edition of the soviet internationale. It accepted the stamp of communism when it accepted as delegates men and women who have been notoriously associated with red activities in this country, some of whom have figured in federal indictments.

That it should look to La Follette for candidate leadership is only natural, and it is equally natural that La Follette, who is too smart to be caught in such a trap, should publicly repudiate such a proffer.

The Wisconsin senator has called his own convention for a purely La Follette party organization behind a La Follette platform, to meet in Cleveland on July 4. While he expects to corral all of the "red" and near-red radicals of the country in his independent candidacy for the presidency, he seriously contemplates a much more formidable following from radical defections from both the major parties than he could possibly hope for through an organization that is as closely Russian as Trotsky himself could possibly anticipate on this shore.

The fact is the farmer-labor party is not too radical for La Follette, nor is La Follette too conservative for the farmer-labor party, but the farmer-labor party is playing a shrewd game of politics in which his own personality and not that of a discredited party skeleton must predominate.

The idea of La Follette creating and operating a radical party dumping ground during the impending campaign ought to be more acceptable than displacing to both the major parties. The fact is they will both be better off if they are purged of the implacable extremists who have taken refuge in their tents for the reason they could find no other covers to shelter them from the storms.

If the people of this country really desire radicalism—whether Americanized socialism or Russianized sovietism—let us know it. And there is no better test than the movement that La Follette is undertaking.

If they do not want it—and still insist on remaining governmentally sane for a while—then let us know that. It will at least be comforting to have the facts established.

Saucy Mockingbird

I.
Do you hear the mockingbird
A-singing in the tree?
O listen, sweet, O listen,
To what he sings to me:

II.
O lover, happy lover!
Just kiss her lips so red.
While beneath my folded wing
I quickly hide my head!

III.
Saucy little mockingbird,
From what you now do sing
I know you played the naughty trick
Of peeping from your wing.

IV.

Although my head I hid,
I know a secret sweet to tell—
He did it!—HE DID!"

Life in the Country.

(Personal paragraphs from the Dahlonega Nugget.)
We are enjoying home-raised beans, potatoes and other vegetables out of our garden and are enjoying life fine. This is a great old world of ours anyway, and we are highly pleased with it.

We are going to look over our list of subscribers in a few days and cut out every one's name who is behind, if we have any. If you want the Nugget this is the way to let it be known. We could get to our journey's end, maybe, without doing any more work, but we prefer being busy in order to keep out of mischief.

We put on our Panama-straw hat last Sunday for the first time this season, since Mossy Creek Camp Meeting in August, and the change gave us a real boost. We meant to make changes, one article at a time, until we got to our white pants, but we will suspend any more changing for a while.

They can make you lean and they can make you fat, they are able to restore your youth like the eagle's, they can give you a new face, banish the wrinkles and bring new lustre to your eyes, but from Japan comes advice of a golden opportunity for the short-legged members of the human family. We have it on the authority of Napoleon that the short man always feels a time of jealousy for the man of great stature. That jealousy need exist no longer, for Dr. Saiké, of the Japanese Institute of Nutrition, is about to start the medical world with a discovery of a fish powder that will increase the human stature.

He has proved it in the case of animals, and he has demonstrated it in humans. Rather a pity that Frederick the Great is no longer in the land of the living. He wanted his garden to be seen feet tall and went to great pains to get them, often kidnapping unsuspecting peasants. Today he would only have to feed his Brandenburgers Dr. Saiké's fish powder and they would have grown into veritable giants.

Trouble in the Holy Land.

Fighting has broken out between Arabs and Jews in different sections of Palestine. The Arabs are well armed and have lots of money. Still it is a notorious fact that during the five centuries of Turkish regime in Palestine the Arab settlers were held in degradation and economic bondage by the absentee Turkish landlords, known as effendis. Where does the money then come from at this time? For that you must look around Europe and see how the money is being hoarded by the absentee landlords, known as effendis. ## $34,100 SOUGHT

BY B. S. BARKER

IN DAMAGE SUIT

Hearing was begun Wednesday in federal court here of a case in which B. S. Barker, of Fulton county, seeks to recover from Charles D. Matthews, of Kentucky, the sum of $34,100 for alleged breach of contract.

The plaintiff, in his petition, claims that on or about February 10, 1920, he was employed by defendant to sell or lease the capital stock of the American and Northwestern railroad company, the defendant being the owner of this stock. Matthews, the petition claims, promised to pay the plaintiff for these services.

The plaintiff, the petition sets forth, accepted employment, relying on defendant's promise to pay him, and opened negotiations for purchase of the stock by E. M. Davis and Lewis Sanders, of New York, and Aschcraft-Wilkinson company and George L. Pratt, of Atlanta. Negotiations resulted in organization of the Piedmont corporation and purchase by this corporation of Matthews' stock. The consideration paid, the petition alleges, was $50,000 in cash and $500,000 par value of the preferred capital stock of the Piedmont corporation.

Petitioner claims that the defendant set no sum to be paid for petitioner's services in selling the stock, but petitioner thinks $34,100 is a reasonable compensation. However, petitioner alleges, no part of this sum has been paid him by the defendant for his services in selling the stock.

New Plan for Securing Entrance Tickets.

Public school patrons may secure entrance tickets for their children on the fourth floor of city hall this summer instead of being compelled to walk up one narrow flight of stairs to the fifth floor as last year.

The board of education has voted to have the elementary school administrative offices out of city hall into a suite of rooms in the Transportation building, to be rented for $150 a month, and give the space to the census and attendance department, which issues tickets.

Elevator service at city hall extends only to the fourth floor.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, June 18.—Sane conversation in Manhattan is becoming almost an impossibility due to the "wise crack."

No matter what topics are under discussion someone turns it into the channel of punning. Many New Yorkers would shoot their wives just for a laugh.

This spirit of conversational flippancy has grown amazingly during the past year. So much so that two newspapers have written editorials on the subject and it has also been the theme of several sermons.

One of the best informed men in New York recently stated that he has studiously avoided serious conversation at any gathering he has attended in the past year. He said he found it he brought up some world problem it would be turned into a prohibition joke.

Cheap vaudeville jokes and back alley slang are heard in every drawing room. The sleek young crackers whose best bet used to be the Automat are now invited to the best dinner boards just to give the low comedy touch.

At dinners where guests of honor are supposed to retain a certain dignity of expression there is instead a jargon of buffoonery. In fact this is so pronounced that reporters who attend them rarely quote a single line of the speeches.

Even among the young folks there appears to be a greater safety in conversation than among the elders.

There is, however, a return to rationalism in one phase of New York life. The smart caterers are going back to the pristine beauty and charm of old Delmonico's and Sherry's. The Russian crack puffed out over night and the lobsteria entrepreneurs found themselves stuck with about ten or twelve acres of weird wall hangings, samovars and furniture in the mode of Moscow. Today the most popular cafes have Raisuli, great bandit of the Moroccan hills, is said to be dying in one of his mountain recesses. And the French government has dispatched the best military surgeon to offer him help. The French rather admire Raisuli. He is not so much a bandit as a super-nationalist. Of course it is very convenient for a great power exploiting a colony to designate a power opposition by the name of banditry, but in reality it is intense patriotism.

ELKS WILL HOLD LAST INITIATION BEFORE BIG MEET

Atlanta Lodge of Elks will hold its final ceremonial of the summer tonight when a class of approximately 160 candidates will be initiated. The next ceremonial will probably not be held until October.

Coming on the eve of the Elks' national convention to be held in Boston, July 6-12, initiation into Atlanta lodge of this class of candidates will afford its members an opportunity of making the trip.

More than 500 local "Bills" have already signified their intention to Ed F. Bond and Arthur L. May, co-chairmen of the "On-Boston" committee, of attending the annual reunion.

Between $10,000 and $12,000 already has been subscribed by Atlanta lodge for the sending of the "Royal Purple" band, the "Purple Devils" patrol, the degree team, drum corps and troubadours. The band and patrol will enter competition for valuable prizes to be offered by the Boston Elks' convention board.

Several special trains have been chartered for the "On-Boston" committee will leave Atlanta Wednesday morning, July 2, making stops for one day at Richmond, Washington, Philadelphia and New York.

The regular annual meeting of stockholders of the Georgia Military academy will be held in the academy offices Tuesday afternoon, June 24, at 4 o'clock, according to the call issued by Col. C. Woodcock, president.

The business of the meeting will not be conducted on that day, however, but on an adjourned meeting to be held on Monday, June 30.

She was named executrix of the estate, the value of which was not estimated.

CITY PURCHASES LOT FOR DRAINAGE TO BASS SCHOOL

Purchase of a lot adjoining Bass Junior High school, to be used in grading and drainage improvement on the school grounds, was voted Wednesday by the board of education. The cost of the lot is $3,000, with a payment of $900 this year and the remainder during the next two years.

Water seeps under the foundations of the magnificent new building, it was stated, and the only way to prevent water damage to the building, the board was told, is to regrade the property, cutting away a small hill. The new lot will be used as part of the school grounds.

GEORGIA NEGRO. EX-SLAVE, TO GO TO CONVENTION

Jim Demperat, ex-slave and before the days of the war between the states the property of the McAdoo family, will accompany the Georgia delegation to the democratic national convention in New York.

It was Jim Demperat who ran for the doctor on the night that William Gibbs McAdoo, now a candidate for the presidency, was elected president. When Jim goes to New York it will be, he says, to witness the realization of many years' longing to see "his boy" nominated for the presidency. Jim is positive that the democrats will never make such a mistake as to nominate anyone else. However, just to make doubly sure, he is going to carry a white silk ribbon across his vest, telling everyone who he is and asking them to vote for McAdoo.

CASTOR OIL ON TROUBLED WATER.

Some one has said in an encomium of castor oil as a regular physic, presumably written by a physician who knows that castor oil has some "tonic" action on the intestinal mucous membrane—which sounds impressive but doesn't mean anything. The friend who sends in the item asks pertinently what mere folks are to do when doctors disagree.

What do folks do when lawyers disagree? They submit the issue to a third lawyer designated as a judge and he decides which is right. In the case of castor oil, the friends of getting suitable compensation for their services.

Any doctor competent to judge knows that castor oil is a fairly brisk and powerful purgative with a pronounced binding after effect, and for that reason it is one of the sovereign remedies in acute diarrhoea cases, promptly averting what the offending material and then binding the bowels. This binding effect renders castor oil peculiarly unsuitable as a laxative in ordinary constipation. Whoever insists on castor oil on a constipated child commits a double error; first, stirring up worse trouble for the morrow; and alienating the child's confidence by arousing his repugnance to medicine. Anybody who contemplates purgating such a dose on an ailing child will find the substitute I have recommended, aromatic syrup of rhubarb, a happy compromise at least with the latter difficulty, though rhubarb, too, exerts an after effect much the same as that of castor oil. The dosage is the same, as for castor oil.

Aromatic syrup of rhubarb is an official preparation authorized by the Pharmacopoeia, so no trouble should be experienced in obtaining it. Any druggist whose store is not too high with booze containers and no trim wrappings can dig out his copy of the Pharmacopoeia somewhere and find the directions for use. Aromatic syrup of rhubarb.

In the same mail with the letter referred to came this one:
Dear Mr. Brady:
I am a grandmother, and until my granddaughter was a week old her mother had never tasted castor oil. I had three children and my remedy for colic was castor oil. I have been 30 months of my husband and binder. Oh, mother said, they would die, but they are now healthy women and one is the mother of two children. I would hate to give castor oil to a dog.

Yours truly,
MRS. K. A. F.
That's the way I like 'em. One counters a constantly increasing number of grandmothers who have a little zip about them nowadays.

And here is still a third voice, or rather a stage whisper in the wilderness:
Dear Doctor:
I feel I must write you a word of commendation for your article on the (d) merits of castor oil. I am one who does not believe in giving it to children, but Friend Husband is one of those old fashioned grannies who believe children should have a good dose of castor oil every now and then. At our house they don't get it, and then the fun begins. To add to the difficulty, our family doctor, a dear old Dr. Goodie Friend Husband, is in his belief, in a voice low but distinct, for I would be heard but not overheard. I say long may Dr. Brady wave, and our children join me.

Yours sincerely,
MRS. H. C.
A cat woman once assured me that every cat required a spoonful of castor oil every now and then. I gave one old cat a spoonful the next day, and, that is, I offered him a spoonful but he didn't seem to care for it just then, so, as applied to his chest, it lasted a long time that way. I have never been able to look him squarely in the eye since.

Hundreds of letters have come into the office of the Boys' and Girls' Club, during the past three days following the appearance of the first picture in the summer drawing and painting contests. The time limit on the first contest is today at noon, and all boys and girls must have their completed drawings in the office at that time in order to have them entered in the contest.

The judges in the contest will start to work as soon as possible, and the names of the winners will be published on page two of the Boys' and Girls' section of the Sunday magazine Sunday afternoon next.

Cash prizes, boxes of real water colors and tickets to see Tom Mix in his latest picture at Loew's Grand Broadway after next will be given to those who are picked as winners by the judges.

The first prize is one dollar in cash; the next eight prizes fifty cents; the following six prizes, a box of water colors, and then fifty prizes of one ticket to Loew's Grand to see Tom Mix and the regular vaudeville show.

Any boy or girl in Atlanta, the state of Georgia or any other state can enter the contest. Prizes won by those living outside of Atlanta will be mailed and in the case of Loew's Grand tickets they can be used whenever the out-of-town boy or girl comes to Atlanta with the exception of Saturdays and holidays.

TALYIS STIRRED OVER BIG SCANDAL

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Rome, June 18.—The political consequences growing out of the disappearance of Deputy Matteotti, the "millionaire socialist," have been far overshadowed in public importance by the investigation into the alleged crime. Although the excited public still goading the nation's guardians of justice to solve the mystery, the officials have been unable to find any real evidence that the deputy actually has been murdered.

A large amount of circumstantial evidence, however, has led both the public and the officials to assume that Matteotti has been put out of the way by political adversaries. Who these political enemies are, who actually ordered the killing of the deputy and who carried out the execution of the order, are questions which are developing the greatest political upheaval Italy has seen in recent years.

Further Scandal Threatened.
Having submerged some of the highest officials of the fascist government, the mystery begins to threaten the revelation of further scandals in connection with persons upon whom the public and the press persist in pinning strong suspicions of connection with the disappearance of Matteotti.

Prominent leaders of the fascists, however, are active in their efforts to place off any possible setback to the fascist party in consequence of the episode. They are urging Premier Mussolini to issue no further demonstration by stern measures that if a few unworthy persons have worked their way up in the councils of the party, this does not mean that the entire fascist movement is tainted.

The fascists leaders assert that if members of the party who already have been punished for alleged connection with the kidnapping of Matteotti endeavor to destroy party unity their efforts will prove a boomerang to themselves. That an attempt at embarrassing Mussolini was footed was believed in political circles today to be indicated by the efforts of Signor Finzi to have the majority committee of the chamber of deputies clear his name of all the imputations made against him since he was forced to resign as minister of the interior a few days after Matteotti disappeared.

An attempt to raise silver foxes in mountain altitudes is now being made in France. Hitherto it was assumed that skins of the finest texture worth more than their weight in gold could be grown only in northern latitudes where the winters are not only very cold but very long.

The French National Society of Acclimation has established a silver fox farm in the French Alps on the theory that the temperatures there would be just as suitable as those of northern Canada. An announcement states that preliminary results are satisfactory.

ATLANTANS HONORED BY GEORGIA RED MEN

Jesse B. Lee, well-known Atlantan, has been elected guest speaker at the annual convention of the Georgia Red Men, according to information received in this city Wednesday night from Columbus.

JESSE B. LEE.

where the annual convention of Red Men of the state is being held. Mr. Lee served during the past year as guest speaker at the annual convention of the Georgia Red Men, held in Columbus, Ga., last year.

Mr. Lee has been prominently identified with fraternal orders in Georgia for many years, particularly in the Red Men circles, and formerly served as a member of the city council of Atlanta.

Other officers elected were E. R. McKee, of Columbus, great sachem; R. C. McCall, of Atlanta, great junior sachem; C. P. Matheny, of Columbus, great chief of council; E. H. Griffin, of Griffin, great keeper of wampum. The convention ends today.

ELECTION WIPES OUT MAJORITY OF SMUTS
Capetown, Union of South Africa, June 18.—(By The Associated Press.) The South African general election of yesterday, it is indicated by the latest available returns, constitutes a direct setback to the Smuts government, whose majority of seven in the last parliament over the opposing parties—Dobson and nationalists—was wiped out. Most of the returns from the country districts are still to be received, but political experts say that the results are expected to show a great change.

The latest results give the South African party of Premier Smuts 35 members, labor 18, the nationalists 25 and one independent. P. S. Malan, the minister of mines, was defeated at Malmesbury, where P. A. Bergh, nationalist, was elected.

Premier Smuts, in a message today thanking his campaign committee after the returns showed his defeat in Pretoria West, says:

"I am of good cheer. From the wider viewpoints which shape the national policy, our failure may yet prove a blessing in disguise. My faith in the future remains as strong as ever, and although the immediate outlook before the country is gloomy enough, in that faith we hold on unflinchingly."

Already twelve successful candidates of the ministerial party have offered their seats to General Smuts to enable him to retain his leadership in parliament.

There were 134 seats in the house of assembly, leaving 55 seats to be heard from.

MACDONALD ATTACKED FOR RAP AT MUSSOLINI
London, June 18.—(By The Associated Press.)—Premier MacDonald and his ministerial colleagues are charged by the anti-government press and parliamentarians with adopting an amazingly offensive attitude toward the Mussolini government in Italy by at least tacit approval of a condemnatory resolution passed yesterday at a meeting of the British labor party, at which Mr. MacDonald and some of the other ministers were present. The resolution, after recording the party's "foundational detestation" of the kidnapping of Socialist Deputy Matteotti, sends "warm sympathy and hearty support to the anti-fascist party of Italy in its struggle against the forces that are trampling upon the fundamental principles of liberty and democracy."

It is not clear whether Premier MacDonald and his colleagues voted for the resolution, but it is stated they did not cast their ballots against it. Apologists for the government say the resolution merely expressed the attitude of the labor party and does not commit the administration.

TRAIN KILLS ONE, INJURES ANOTHER

Washington, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Vance Hanson, 21, of Camden, N. C., was instantly killed, and Fred Smith, 28, of Henry, N. C., had his left leg cut off above the knee when run over by the Piedmont train of the Georgia railroad, near Barnett, Ga., tonight about 8:30 o'clock.

Fred Smith was given first aid by the train crew at Barnett and then brought to the local hospital. He was conscious, but weakened by loss of blood, and is in a serious condition.

According to statement of Engineer C. T. McDermott, both men were lying across the main line of the road, using the rails as a head rest, when the train rounded the curve, about 200 yards south of the station at Barnett. He put on emergency brakes and blew his whistle, but struck both men before bringing the train to a stop, he said.

Smith states that he has a wife and one child in North Carolina, and explained that he and Hanson, who work in a sawmill at Powellton, were in Barnett waiting repairs on their automobile. He declined to state more.

HANIHARA PREDICTS FRIENDLY SOLUTION
Providence, R. I., June 18.—Japan, in its dealings with the United States, has always believed that as between friends there is no question that cannot be adjusted amicably. Ambassador Hanihara of Japan, declared today in an address at Brown university, where he received the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

"With such unique and precious history," back of American-Japanese friendship, he said, "the one great question in the minds of my people now is: Is it the true sentiment of the American people to make light of its friendship with the people of Japan, a friendship which has been built up by hard conscientious labor of the two peoples extending over nearly three-quarters of a century, not only to the good of themselves alone but for the good of the rest of mankind?"

Sketches Friendly Relations.
The Japanese ambassador sketched the history of the relations of the two nations, from when Commodore Perry set foot on the shores of Japan to the signing of the Washington conference treaties. He refrained from any specific mention of the immigration law, with its Japanese exclusion provision.

"If I fail to express myself adequately," he said, "it is not because of any lack of appreciation of your good will, but solely on account of the unfortunate limitations I am under in the use of the English language."

"It is indeed," he said, "a blessing to feel that a trust among trusted friends to whom he may open his heart without fear of being misunderstood."

After thanking Brown university and the people of Rhode Island for the compliment bestowed upon him which, he said, was an assurance of good will and friendship, the ambassador began at once his outline of the friendship between the two countries.

"And I may express the hope," he said, "that the friendship may survive, as it will survive, if we remain true to our worthy traditions of the past, which is an embodiment of that great human spirit of mutual tolerance and esteem."

At another point after relating Japan's efforts to become a bulwark of peace in the Far East, he said: "We Japanese have tried to become a great nation, not only in the attainment of strength sufficient to defend ourselves and protect our weaker neighbors from dangerous aggressions, but also we have striven to the great because we are anxious to serve the cause of humanity. We have been sincerely proud to serve with the great nations of the west, and we shall continue to serve as long as those nations will permit us to do so."

He paid high tribute to the many ambassadors and ministers who have represented the United States in Japan, and to hundreds of other Americans who have played prominent parts in the story of modern Japan.

Great Customer of U. S.
"We are and have been for years, your greatest customer on the Pacific, overwhelmingly so, and the United States is the greatest market for our products. We say nothing that could mar these happy and mutually beneficial relations until after the Russian war, when certain evil forces began to work against America and Japan were restored to their old level of happy and glorious friendship."

"Such has been, in brief, the history of our relations, which have been made immeasurably closer by the generous act of sympathy on the part of the American people at the time of our great calamity of last September."

Senate Filibuster In Rhode Island Breaks Record

Providence, R. I., June 18.—With a former filibuster record of 20 hours broken, the Rhode Island senate is still in session late tonight, with indications that the deadlock would continue to tomorrow. The former filibuster in February was interrupted with several recesses, but the present deadlock, which began yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, has been continuous, with Lieutenant Governor Toupin, the presiding officer of the senate, and the secretary of state and reading clerk remaining in their places.

The democrats have been carrying on a filibuster all session, aided by the action of Lieutenant Governor Toupin, democrat, in refusing to recognize republican members seeking to make a motion.

During the evening Senator Quinn and Republican State Committeeman John J. Letourmy engaged in a fist fight in the senate corridor and several blows were exchanged, before they were separated.

Squads of Providence police and deputy sheriffs continued on guard prepared for any emergency. Thousands thronged the statehouse, and finding the senate chamber and several corridors jammed to suffocation, milled about the corridors.

As the night wore on, both sides maintained their positions.

HANGMAN'S NOOSE CLAIMS SLAYER OF NEGRO WOMAN
Perry, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Lucius Mallory, negro, was hanged today at 1 o'clock. He denied the killing of Isabella Taylor, aged negro woman, until the black cap was placed over his head then he told Sheriff Chapman to remove it, that he wanted to tell the truth before he died. He said that he got mad with the old negro woman, went to her home and knocked her in the head with the barrel of a shotgun court in vacation on the scene of the accident. The body of Isabella Taylor, who was drowned when a bateau capsized in Warsaw sound early Wednesday morning, was found this afternoon in the Wilmington river, several miles from the scene of the accident. The body of Manuel Coucoulas, also believed to have been drowned, has not been recovered. Boats continued the search. Five other persons who were in the boat at the time were rescued and brought to Thunderbolt, but Coucoulas is still missing.

Last night a party, composed of six couples, went for a moonlight ride on a prawn boat of the fleet of Maccioni, the vessel being in charge of Charles Griffin and John Kelly.

Following the ride, the party arrived in Warsaw sound off the north end of Warsaw, about 18 miles from Thunderbolt, where the party embarked. It was suggested that the party go on Warsaw beach to look for turtle eggs. The first bateau landed Misses Leo Love, Louise Boushelt, Myrtle Anderson and John Kelly and Clifford Goette on the beach. The second bateau was to take the remainder of the party ashore. The remaining seven people got into the bateau. They were Miss Jones, Coucoulas, Miss Eulian Dourley, Griffin, Malcolm Cohen and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carter. The last of the party had just gotten into the boat when a wave caused one of the women, who was standing in the bateau, to lose her balance and fall. As she fell she grabbed one of the men and they both fell out, capsizing the boat, according to Carter. There was a heavy sea and the bateau drifted away from the motor boat. Cohen and Carter started to swim to the motor boat to throw a line to the bateau, which was rapidly being carried to sea, according to Carter. The sea was running so strong, Carter says, he became exhausted.

In the meantime another fishing boat found the upturned bateau well out at sea. The bateau was found early this morning. Hanging onto the bateau were Griffin, Miss Dourley and Mrs. Carter. Miss Jones and Coucoulas were missing.

New York, June 18.—Increasing nervousness over new crop progress in the southwest through continued high temperatures seemed largely responsible for the advance in the cotton market today. October contracts sold up from 25.65 to 26.25 and closed at 26.17, the market closing firm at net advances of 34 to 40 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 20 points. Active positions sold about 7 to 10 points net lower, in anticipation of cooler weather in the south and liquidation. Offerings were light, however, and after selling off to 26.17 for July and 24.95 for December, the market stiffened on a less favorable weather report from the weather bureau than expected, reports of a steady tone in July at New Orleans and covering by recent sellers. July advanced to 26.90 and December to 25.53 in the late trading or 36 to 40 points net higher. New Orleans saying or considering the afternoon advance.

Exports today 671, making 5,433, 406 so far this season. Port receipts 5,558. United States port stocks 324,401.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.
New York, June 18.—Spot cotton steady; middling 29.90.

GOOD ADVANCE AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, June 18.—The cotton market experienced a good advance owing to heavy covering by shorts frightened by the hot wave in the western belt and confirmation by the government that the heat was proving injurious to young cotton. July, being under the influence of other features than the weather, did not advance nearly as much as new crop months. It traded 17 points lower near the opening, climbed 50 points from the low mark, then eased off in the late trading. October and December near the start traded 3 and 5 points higher, but rallied later to 25.55 and 25.31 respectively, or 43 and 61 points up from the low. All new-crop positions reacted slightly in the first half of trading, realizing the close showed net gains for the day of 22 points on July and 45 to 40 points on new-crop months.

Liverpool was better than the start. The local market made a poor response and showed some disposition to ease off in the early trading on continued good weather. It was checked by private reports of continued high temperatures in Texas. Although the weather map was favorable and the weekly weather report showed that the crop has made progress during the past week, the market ruled steady at some gain over the early lows. Some of the gain was lost in the final trading on realizing.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD has completed plans for electrification of the line from New York to Washington and Baltimore, according to a recent announcement will await better railroad conditions before beginning the actual construction work.

HIGH GRADE railroad stocks continue to lead the forward movement and several issues are quite impressive and ground for the current year. Nickel Plate was conspicuous by its strength and advanced 1/2 cent to 100. The Erie, a 4 1/2 percent, 100,000, or the equivalent of $12.50 a share on the common stock, these figures are quite impressive and would seem to indicate that the speculative market in this particular issue has not yet run its course.

PREFERRED STOCKS of the better grade are in considerable demand under present market conditions. Being free from normal income tax under the new revenue act and also being exempt from the part of people whose income is derived from securities, they have been in demand for some time. The highest grade bonds, however, are really more important than the security protected by mortgage provisions by companies whose earnings power is moderate.

$2,075,000 HOLDUP HAS BEEN SOLVED

Chicago, June 18.—One of the most daring train robberies ever perpetrated, the holdup of a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul mail train near Chicago the night of June 12, by eight bandits who obtained $2,075,000 in cash and securities, has been solved, postal officials announced tonight.

Four of the alleged train robbers are in custody, postal officials said, one has confessed, part of the loot has been recovered and a nationwide search for the quartet still at liberty is in progress with prospects of their arrest within a short time.

Max Greenberg, said to be a member of Egan's rats, St. Louis gangster, planned the robbery at East St. Louis, according to the officers, and had the assistance of Carlo and Ernest Fontano, Chicago gunmen, who are believed to be implicated in the $80,000 mail robbery at Harvey, Ill., in March, and the $35,000 robbery at Indiana Harbor six weeks ago. Carlo Fontano was arrested yesterday. His brother is being sought.

Three Brothers Involved. Three brothers, besides the two Fontano brothers participated in the robbery, postal inspectors said. They are Willie Newton, Willis Newton, and Joe Newton, alias Johnny Newton. All three of the brothers are in custody.

Willie Newton is the bandit who was wounded and who posed as J. H. Wayne. Willis Newton gave him the name as Paul Wade and said he was a Tulsa aviator, and Johnny Newton traveled under the alias of J. H. Watson.

Besides the Fontano and Newton brothers, the others who participated in the robbery and who are still at large, postal inspectors said, are Samuel Grant, of Cisco, Texas, who escaped from the prison at Huntsville, Texas, where he was serving a life sentence for murder, and Blackie Wilcox, also a convict escaped from the Huntsville prison.

Loot Set at $2,075,000.

An official statement placed the loot obtained by the robbers at $2,075,000 in cash and securities and $75,000 in cash. A little more than $200,000 in cash has been recovered, including the $20,000 seized from the Mead woman, Murray, it is alleged, was implicated in the plan to conceal Willis Newton after the latter had been wounded and was brought to Chicago by his companions.

The bandits gathered here on the day of the robbery, and during the afternoon they obtained two automobiles, both stolen, according to the inspectors, and all except Willis Newton and Grant proceeded in those two cars to the scene of the robbery at Roundout, Ill., 32 miles north of Chicago.

Willis Newton and Grant donned overalls and boarded the St. Paul mail train, riding blind baggage between the tender and first mail car until they reached Roundout, where they crawled into the engine cab and, pointing pistols at the engineer and fireman, ordered the engineer to stop the train when he approached a wide remount road. It was at this point that their confederates were waiting.

Holdup of Train.

The train crew agreed to stop if they were unarmed. When the train was stopped, Willis Newton and Grant forced the fireman and engineer to walk back the length of the train while their companions swarmed about the mail cars. One of the train crew pointed out that it was dangerous to allow the train to stand without putting flames out and the bandits agreed and ordered one member of the crew to proceed back along the train.

While they were bombing the cars, Willis Newton, alias Wayne, walked back along the train to see what was transpiring. As he came back Grant, who had not missed him, saw him and fired five shots, each taking effect. A few minutes later a mail clerk remarked he heard a man groaning and Willis Newton was ordered to investigate and found his brother wounded.

The wounded man was hustled into one of the automobiles with some of his companions and brought to Chicago.

ago and hidden in a garage for a day, then taken to McComb's flat, where he was arrested with his brother, Ernest Fontano, Grant and Wilcox departed in the second automobile with the 61 stolen mail pouches and proceeded to a point near Joliet, where they rifled the mail pouches and discarded them and the automobile.

Postal inspectors said the bandits had arranged to meet in an East St. Louis saloon last Monday and divide the loot. This meeting did not take place and another was arranged for last night at the same place, but the saloon was watched and none of the suspects showed up.

INSTRUCTED VERDICT ASKED IN LUMBER CASE

Washington, June 18.—The prosecution rested today in the alleged lumber fraud conspiracy case and counsel for the six defendants made separate motions for an instructed verdict of acquittal. Justice Bailey excused the jurors until Monday morning and allowed counsel until tomorrow morning to prepare their arguments.

Justice Bailey asked government counsel for a statement tomorrow of the evidence on which the prosecution seeks to hold John Stephens, of Jacksonville, Fla., who was a partner with John L. Phillips in the contract with the United States to dispose of the surplus lumber, and Ernest C. Morse, former director of sales of the war department.

Justice Bailey also suggested that the indictment seems to charge two conspiracies, one to obtain a contract by which Phillips and Stephens were to sell the lumber and one under which they were to get secret profits, and another by which the accused conspired to obtain the release of lumber as surplus which was needed for governmental purposes. Unless it was claimed that all the defendants conspired, the justice said, he wanted counsel for the government to be prepared to argue the question if there were two conspiracies charged.

Bolivar T. Murray, of Heflin, Va., was the last witness offered by the prosecution. He was a former army officer and acted as vice chairman of the ordinance salvage board at Detroit, Mich. He told of visiting Phillips at the latter's apartment in Detroit, and testified Phillips told him he was getting half of the profits on the resale of the lumber but had "to take care of the boys in Washington." Phillips told Murray to forget the conversation and the witness "would be taken care of," it was testified.

MAINE RESULTS HANG ON OFFICIAL RETURNS

Portland, Me., June 18.—Whether Frank G. Farrington, president of the Maine senate, or State Senator Ralph O. Brewster was nominated for governor in the republican primary Monday will not be determined until the official returns have been tabulated at the state house, because of the close vote. The next meeting of the governor and council, which is responsible for the tabulation, will be held on June 28.

With a score of small places missing in the unofficial returns today, Senator Farrington still had a lead of about 300. The vote standing: Farrington, 47,383; Brewster, 47,061.

INDIANA MAN ASKS RECEIVER OF KLAN

Muncie, Ind., June 18.—Receivership for the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is asked in a suit filed in circuit court here today by James F. Hildebrand, Muncie insurance agent, who alleges the organization is violating the provisions of its Indiana charter which sets out that the organization is not for profit. Hildebrand alleges that the Ku Klux Klan is insolvent and owes $80,000,000.

Hildebrand, who is now national treasurer of the Independent Klan of America, the organization formed here recently by chapters seceding from the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, says he is filing the suit in behalf of 1,500 former klansmen.

Hildebrand charges in the suit that the Klan's money is being divided among its members "according to the will and discretion, and desires of the former Texas dentist, Hiram W. Evans, now his lordship in the defendant organization." It is alleged in the complaint that more than $5,000,000 was paid into the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan treasury by Indiana members, including the plaintiff, which money was to have been used in building and establishing a university to be known as the American university; that 500-odd Indiana persons bought robes of the Ku Klux Klan at $6.50 each and that $3.50 of this sum was to go into the fund to establish the university, but that after receiving $5,000,000 in this way, the defendant organization divided the money among its officers and did not use any of it for the purpose intended.

It is alleged the Ku Klux Klan gave to William Joseph Simmons, former head of the Klan, $145,000 of this money, gave $100,000 to a sculptor for carving the likeness of George Washington on the face of Stone Mountain, and that the officers of the corporation otherwise have dissipated the money of the members.

It also is alleged that the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan organization is paying to Walter Bossert, Imperial representative in Indiana, $20,000 a week.

The complaint says that Hildebrand's efforts to get an accounting from the national organization resulted in his being threatened and told to "go home to Muncie" and that Evans finally subjected him to a "decree of banishment."

INDIANA GRAND DRAGON ANNOUNCES RESIGNATION.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 18.—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, known as "the old man" in a statement issued here today announced his resignation from the order. He will retain his position with the northern klansmen who have seceded from the organization with headquarters in Georgia, he said.

Referring to the alleged recent edict of the imperial wizard of the Klan, H. W. Evans, at the Cleveland convention, in which he contended the latter threatened the death of the republican ticket in November unless the national republican organization obeyed his will, Stephenson declared another course was his only option.

The threat referred to by Stephenson was said to have been the statement quoted Evans as supporting Senator Watson, of Indiana, for the republican nomination for vice president. Evans denied issuing the statement.

Stephenson in his resignation declared the threat had the effect of eliminating Watson as a vice presidential possibility, and said it was engineered by former Governor James P. Goodrich, of Indiana, and Walter Bossert, a Klan official.

The whole story of the Cleveland threat by the imperial wizard against the republican party accomplished its purpose so far as Goodrich is concerned, the statement said. "It defeated Senator Watson."

MRS. FERGUSON LAUNCHES FIGHT FOR GOVERNOR

Temple, Texas, June 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Fighting for vindication of her husband at the hands of Texas voters, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, wife of former Governor James E. Ferguson, has launched her candidacy for the democratic nomination for governor.

With Mr. Ferguson, who was impeached by the state senate in 1917 at the beginning of his second term as governor, frustrated in an attempt to seek office again, his wife has entered the political arena as the family standard bearer.

The first of her sex to seek a gubernatorial office, Mrs. Ferguson opened her campaign yesterday with an appeal to citizens to support her so that the family name may be cleared and is a rebuke to the senate that voted her husband's impeachment.

Brakebeam Vote Planning to Quit Democracy Cold

Hoboes Indignant as One-Eyed Connelly Lands on His Ear.

New York, June 18.—Owing to the tactless treatment accorded a distinguished democratic statesman by the bouncer at the door of Governor Al Smith's hotel, the entire brakebeam vote of the country may be cast for Calvin Coolidge and General Dawes in the presidential election. One-Eyed Connelly, the eminent international gatecrasher and democratic leader, was reluctant to discuss the matter Wednesday beyond stating that he had been tossed out on his ear when he went to pay his respects to the governor.

"As a gate crasher I am used to being tossed out on my ear," Mr. Connelly said. "I have been tossed further and out of better places many times before. But I was not aiming to borrow any dough from Al. I just wanted to tell him that I had lined up the brakebeam vote solid for him when I got tossed out on my ear. This is no way to treat a leader. I see a lot of plug politicians going to call on these candidates and they don't get tossed out on their ears. You may tell my public that One-Eyed Connelly is not a republican by an overwhelming majority."

No Change in Rule.

It is true that the two-thirds rule is an archaic relic of state's rights days, when states were looked upon as sovereign units of government. There is little of it except a tradition and a technicality. And yet it is doubtful if it will be ended for the purposes of this convention. A rule of the protection of minorities, and the hope of minority candidates.

And the aggregate of the early hopes of the minority candidates should be enough to prevent adoption of the rule. Some of these minority candidates and their friends favor McAdoo against Smith, but hardly favor him as against their own chances. It is doubtful that McAdoo would be nominated at the beginning by the change of the two-thirds rule to majority rule, then it follows that every remote hope and all the friends of such, has a personal interest in keeping the two-thirds rule.

MAJOR LOUIS GRANT CLEARED OF CHARGES

Washington, June 18.—Major Louis T. Grant, manager of the 12th district of the veterans' bureau, has been exonerated of charges against him in the majority report of a committee of investigation, which has been approved by Director Hines, of the bureau.

The committee finds that Louis T. Grant is at the present time efficient, morally fit for the office which he governs, and that the disabled men of this district have not suffered because of anything under the control of Major Grant, or any disclosures made regarding him. The majority report states that no evidence was found that Grant has been unfaithful, but that "he has failed to organize an efficient staff as he should have done," and "the best interests of the bureau will be served by his retirement as district manager."

A minority report declares that most of the charges against Major Grant have not been substantiated, but that "he has failed to organize an efficient staff as he should have done," and "the best interests of the bureau will be served by his retirement as district manager."

OPPONENTS' LACK OF UNITY IS SEEN

A fight between drys and wets, between progressives and conservatives, between the rest of the country and New York, there may come upon the convention that same kind of pressure of public opinion that brought success to Wilson in 1912. Once McAdoo establishes his majority, he has no opponent to fear as much as Clark had to fear Wilson.

Among the many elements of strength McAdoo has is the fact that his opponents are not united. They are united in a common wish to beat McAdoo, but not on a common candidate against him. Smith is, of course, by far the strongest candidate in the anti-McAdoo fight; but some of the strongest anti-McAdoo leaders, including the one who will probably be the floor leader of the anti-McAdoo forces, neither wishes the nomination of Smith, nor believes it possible.

Smith's candidacy is to some extent a cement to McAdoo's strength. There are McAdoo delegates who, in a long strain, would be willing to leave McAdoo in order to support John W. Davis, or Carter Glass, or Governor Ritchie, but who will stick rigidly to McAdoo so long as the fight is between McAdoo and Smith.

It should be added that there are some delegates instructed for McAdoo who would vote for Smith if any turn should come that would release them from their instructions, but the number of these is small relative to the others. Fully nine-tenths of McAdoo's delegates are dry and progressive.

So also are most of the delegates to the anti-McAdoo forces. Among the McAdoo delegates, Glass, Virginia delegates, Charles Bryan's Nebraska delegates and Governor Davis' Kansas delegates, these will help McAdoo in a tug-of-war against Smith; but less strongly against some other candidates.

No Change in Rule.

Any gambler would accept today a bet on the chances of the whole field against McAdoo. For example, the delegates from Kansas are prevailing for McAdoo, but subject to a prior obligation to be for the governor, Jonathan Davis, if he has a chance. The Kansas delegates will hardly throw away in advance of the balloting every possible chance their governor has, by taking an action that would make McAdoo's nomination certain.

The same situation applies, in one degree or another, to Nebraska and its governor, Charles Bryan; to Arkansas and its senator, Joseph T. Robinson; and to several others. Moreover, for McAdoo's friends to abolish the rule under circumstances designed to make him the immediate beneficiary of the change might start currents counter to him in a situation that has been running in favor of him to a degree that nobody, three months ago, believed possible.

McAdoo has a greater degree of control of this convention than is commonly realized; but a democratic convention is a democratic convention. There is more vitality of personal conviction and emotion among the individual delegates than in republican convention; and any effort to ride them too hard might cause even a more rapid runways than occurred at Cleveland last week. Prudent democrats look to the permanent future, say that if the two-thirds rule is to be abolished as archaic, some way should be found to do it by action of the national committee between conventions, and not at a moment that looks like changing the rules of the game just as the closing hand is being dealt.

M'DOWELL CALLED CRAZY BY DOCTORS

One of whom was confined in an insane asylum for a period, while another lost his mind entirely before death and a third committed suicide.

During the closing moments of its case, which was finished at 3 o'clock, the state produced several witnesses who testified regarding the procuring of drugs by McDowell, stress being laid upon a prescription which he was charged with having forged on the day preceding the double killing. Dr. L. Lambdin, of St. Petersburg, declared that during an examination of the defendant last Sunday he admitted he forged prescriptions to get drugs of different kinds which he used himself, and it was later developed that the boy had obtained two grains of a drug shortly before he shot his parents to death.

Purpose Not Clear.

This drug, Dr. Lambdin testified, could be administered to a person in several ways. By putting it in coffee, he said, it was slow to take effect, probably not producing sleep for 45 minutes. The purpose of this line of testimony was not brought out in the questioning, but there were indications that it was designed to connect up with statements of other witnesses to the effect that the boy first drugged his parents and then shot them after they fell asleep.

Testimony of several state witnesses was to the effect that both of the bodies were found in repose, without any indication whatever of a struggle having taken place prior to the time they were shot.

The state previously let it be known that an attempt would be made to show that, instead of insanity being behind the murder, the real motive was a desire on the part of McDowell to obtain money to pay the expenses of a life of ease and luxury in a bachelor's apartment in New York's white light district.

Agitated At Return.

Testimony had been previously of ered by R. G. Payne, St. Petersburg insurance agent, that young McDowell showed considerable agitation on the day preceding the crime when he was told that his father planned to return to Decatur, Ga., former residence there. It was at Decatur that the youth burned to death his two sisters, according to a confession placed in evidence, and which he is said to have made voluntarily.

McDowell was seen on the night of the killings, according to testimony of the janitor of the building as he entered the building where the insurance agent had an office, and later, the janitor and his wife testified, pieces of paper were found in the office from which heart-shaped portions had been cut and would answer the description of the paper on which a note was found between the bodies of the boy's parents. On this note, which was placed in evidence, was a paraphrase of the Lord's Prayer, and reference to the "Holy Ghost" and "anti-Christ," referred to in statements that defendant was quoted as saying were behind the crime.

$1,000 Protection for One Dollar Offered to Constitution Subscribers

Protection for one dollar! That's what The Constitution offers you in its great $1,000 Travel and Pedestrian Accident Insurance proposition.

Here's an illustration: William B. Wood, of Route No. 2, Alpharetta, Ga., was injured in an automobile accident on March 3, 1924, on the public highway near Alpharetta. His car turned over, bruising his face and arm, and totally incapacitating him for a period of four weeks.

Mr. Wood was the holder of a $1,000 Travel and Pedestrian Accident Insurance policy issued through The Constitution for the sum of $1 per year. This policy provides protection to the extent of $1,000 against death in certain specified accidents; varying sums for injuries and $10 weekly indemnity in case of disability.

Under the provisions of his policy he was paid out $1 in addition to the annual subscription rate of The Daily and Sunday Constitution—Mr. Wood, on May 14, received a check for $40.

Another great prospective opportunity afforded by The Constitution is its famous $500 Group Reader Life Insurance policy—the only straight life insurance offer made by an Atlanta newspaper. This policy, issued without medical examination, costs only at the rate of 15 or 20 cents per week, depending on the risk involved, in addition to The Constitution's regular subscription rates. It provides payment of $500 in case of death from any cause, and it continues in effect as long as payments on both The Constitution subscription and the policy are kept up.

If you are seriously interested in the material welfare and comfort of your family, you will be interested in one of these unprecedented economic and effective offers. A phone call, a letter or a visit to The Constitution's insurance department will bring you full particulars.

Over $20,000 paid to the subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution during the past two years through its reader service insurance department. ### Radiant Outdoor Setting Marks Candler-Thompson Ceremony

In an exquisite outdoor setting that rivalled the romantic splendor of medieval pageantry, the marriage of Miss Lucy Candler to Homer Thompson took place Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the formal gardens of the magnificent home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Griggs Candler, Jr., on Briarcliff road, in Druid Hills.

Magnificent Setting.
The vast grounds of the home, impressive in their live green natural beauty, were made softly radiant by the glow of Chinese lanterns which were hung among the trees. The summer flowers of the garden, all ablaze, added still further to the pleasing atmosphere present in the scene of tropical verdure.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Bishop Warren A. Candler, the bride's great-uncle, in the formal garden.

The stately altar, erected in the natural amphitheater of the garden and created with a large central arch and two smaller arches on either side, was lavishly adorned with massive palms, ferns, Madonna lilies, anemones and pink roses.

The pillars which supported the graceful arches were artistically entwined by trailing vines and pink roses, while electric lights enclosed in pink paper rosebuds cast a mellow effulgence from the concave side of the arches, on which they were tastefully placed.

The beautiful strains of wedding music, played by Charles Sheldon on the great pipe organ in the home, floated out to the garden through a specially devised transmission arrangement and was supplemented by the orchestra, concealed behind the impressive altar, directed by Enrico Leide. Lohengrin's bridal chorus and Mendelssohn's wedding march were played as the bridal party entered, followed by the bride.

The bride's cousin, Miss Louise Wicker, sang "Until."

The bride's party entered from the summer porch through a pergola and into an aisle created by pedestal baskets filled with Madonna lilies and garlanded with white satin ribbon and wicker. Through this aisle they proceeded to the space set aside for the families and close friends by a dainty white lattice-work, entered by way of a small double gate which was opened by Miss Rena Candler and Miss Mary Candler, little cousins of the bride.

Wedding Attendants.
The bridesmaids and groomsmen entered in pairs, Miss Lois Thompson, the groom's sister, with Robert Woodruff, Miss Goodwyn Denny, of Rome, Ga., with Fonville McWhorter, Miss Virginia Phillips, of San Francisco, with Jack Easter, of Portland, Ore., Mrs. Lynn Frederick Howard with Carl Thompson, brother of the groom, of Los Angeles, Miss Katharine Haverly with Edwin McCarty, Mrs. George Ivey, of Charlotte, N. C., with Eugene Thatcher, Miss Louise Inman with Charles Foley, Miss Emmie Nixon with George Woodruff, of Columbus, and Miss Annie Foote with John Westmoreland.

The bridesmaids' exquisite gowns were of the latest fashion.

Outlining the aisle for the bridal party were two baskets holding Easter lilies and tied with white tulle.

The bride's table in the dining room was adorned with a huge wedding cake in pink and white, in the center of which stood a miniature bride and bridegroom. The real lace cover on the table was the gift of an aunt of the bride, brought from Europe recently.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Parker Marries James E. Hickey, Jr.

Americus, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—An elaborate wedding of interest to a wide circle of friends throughout the state and characterized by great beauty was that of Miss Mary Elizabeth Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton C. Parker, and James Edwin Hickey, Jr., of Atlanta, which was solemnized Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Taylor street.

The entire lower floor of the beautiful Parker home was artistically decorated for the occasion, the hall and drawing room, where the ceremony took place, being in green and white, and the library, music room and dining room in pink. The stairway down which the wedding party descended was entwined with garlands of smilax and white tulle. The improvised altar in the drawing room was banked with massive palms, ferns and smilax, tall white pedestal baskets filled with Madonna lilies, alternating with seven-branched candles holding cathedral tapers.

Rev. John M. Outler, pastor of the First Methodist church, was the officiating minister. The impressive ceremony was used.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Stuart Prather sang "For the Want of You." The wedding music was rendered by Frank Sheffield, Jr., accompanied by Miss Helen Argo, violinist, a cousin of the bride, using the wedding march from "Lohengrin" for the entrance of the bridal party and softly playing "Berceuse" from Jocelyn during the ceremony.

Maid of Honor.
Miss Eugenia Parker, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and was beautiful in a gown of palest yellow chiffon, veiling chiffon of the same shade. The skirt, full fashioned, was made bouffant at the hips by bands of yellow ostrich, and trimmed with motifs of yellow ostrich fastened with brilliants.

Preceding the bride came the little flower girls, Fred Singer Turpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turpin, and Eula Felton Council, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Council. They wore exquisite little frocks of flesh chiffon, effectively combined with real lace. They carried old-fashioned nosegays of flowers in Dresden shades.

The Bride.
The beautiful bride descended the stairs with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, being joined at the altar by the groom and his best man, Richard Hickey, of Atlanta.

She was radiantly lovely in her gown of white crepe chiffon, veiling white crepe-back satin, with exquisite pearl embroidery ornamenting the skirt and bodice. The skirt was fashioned with petal panels outlined with pearl embroidery and a delicate tracery of seed pearls finished the round neck and sleeveless armholes. Fastened to her gown at the shoulders with clusters of orange blossoms was the long court train of white satin embroidered in seed pearls. Handsome duchess lace, which has been in the family for generations, edged the misty tulle veil which was held to her hair with a coronet of duchess lace and, with a crescent of orange blossoms, held in place the graceful folds of the veil in the back. She carried a real lace handkerchief, which has also been in the family for years. Her slippers were white satin brocade in silver. She carried a bouquet of orchids showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Parker, mother of the bride, wore a handsome gown of blue Elizabeth crepe richly embroidered in crystal beads, and girdled with soft powder blue ribbon. Her corsage bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. James E. Hickey, Sr., of Atlanta, wore an exquisite gown of French blue chiffon, elaborately beaded in crystal. Her corsage was of deep pink rosebuds and valley lilies.

A group of lovely young girls assisted in serving. They were Miss Chloe Davenport, Miss Frances Shiver, Miss Martha Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Joyner, Miss Harriet Rynlander, Miss Ruth McMath and Miss Annie Turpin. Miss Claire Harris and Miss Alice Harold served at the bride's table in the dining room.

The bride's table in the dining room was beautifully appointed, with Venetian lace cover over satin, and laid for its central decoration a handsome low silver bowl filled with roses and pink carnations. The covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hickey, Jr., Miss Eugenia Parker, Miss Vera Henry, of Seale, Ala.; Miss Anne Hickey, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Hickey, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sanders Hickey, John Sellers, Richard Hickey, Leonard Parker, Billy Parker and Frank Sheffield, Jr.

During the evening Mr. Hickey and his bride left for an extended wedding journey to Lake Louise and other points in Canada, returning by New York. They will be at home the latter part of July at the Atlanta Biltmore.

The bride's traveling costume was a stunning navy blue model of Elizabeth crepe, checked all over, and with collar and cuffs of deep cream flit. Her wrap was of gray flannel with a gray squirrel collar. Her smart close-fitting hat was an imported model of dark blue straw, decorated with flowers, veiled with lace of the same shade and lined with a lighter shade of blue.

Mrs. Hickey is the older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Parker, and is one of the most charming young girls of Americus. She was prominently connected with the social life of Americus, possesses beauty of an exquisite blonde type, and a disposition of unusual sweetness that has made her a favorite with a wide circle of friends who regret that her marriage will take her away from Americus.

She was educated in the schools of Americus, and attended Hollins college in Virginia, where she was a member of the Phi Mu sorority, later finishing her education in New York.

The spacious living room was decorated with palms and ferns, pink roses and Spencer sweet peas of the same color. The archway where the bride and groom stood was decorated in garlands of similar, and hanging from the arch was a wedding bell of Madonna lilies.

William J. Mahoney, Jr., brother of the bride, was groomsmen. The bridesmaid, Miss Marguerite McLean, of Louisville, Ky., wore an exquisite gown of pink chiffon shading from shell pink to deeper shades of rose, and trimmed with bands of hand-made chrysanthemums, and carried a bouquet of pink Columbia roses showered with tiny roses.

Miss Dorothy Mahoney, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and was gowned in pink chiffon, and carried a bouquet of pink Columbia roses, straight lines with bands of crystal beads and trimmed with crystal fringe. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lavender sweet peas.

The little flower girl, Lula Mae Zachary, wore a dainty hand-made frock of pink chiffon trimmed in pink satin ribbon and tiny hand-made roses. She carried a miniature bouquet of pink roses, lilies of the valley and sweet peas.

Was skeptical of Kellogg's Bran until it gave him back his health

Naturally Mr. Carter—whose letter follows—was skeptical. He had tried practically everything for the relief of constipation. All had failed. But Kellogg's Bran brought him permanent relief, just as it has done for thousands of others. Read his letter:

Gentlemen:

I am 43 years old, and have been for years a great sufferer from constipation. I had to resign a clerical position because of rushes of blood to my head, some of which caused me to fall to the ground. I took an outdoor laboring job and tried for the first time, skeptically I admit, your Krumble Bran. The result has been wonderful. I began to be normal after I had been on the Bran about three days. No more enemies, no more Dr. S. and S. Pills, Epsom salts by the ton, etc., ad infinitum! You have the most wonderful product for constipation I have ever seen or tried. Yours very gratefully, L. T. Carter, 294 Nineteenth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, does not irritate the intestines like drugs and pills. It acts exactly as nature acts. Eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the exclusive, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Eat two tablespoonsful daily—in chronic cases with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Sold by all grocers. Made in Battle Creek.

AN UNGALLANT HUSBAND!

By George S. Chappell.
Darling, you are growing old,
Yes, and obviously fatter,
Yet you sit there, fold on fold,
Just as if it didn't matter;
Gone, the figure I extolled,
Using all the well-known patter,
Lost, obliterated, rolled
Into one great mass of batter.
Why, O, why was I so bold?
Why did I of marriage chatter?
Did I love you, or your gold?
O, it must have been the latter,
For your monumental mold
Now all romance seems to shatter,
And my heart is like a cold
Pancake, only rather flatter.

A Matter of Identification.

All Set for a Fish Story?

He had been planning the fishing trip all winter, and now all preparations were made. Even the old car had been lovingly overhauled and tuned up. It was to be a great event. Three boon companions were to accompany him. They were to leave town Monday morning.

Friday evening, when he arrived home from the office, his wife handed him a slip of paper. It was a jury summons! It commanded him to report for service Monday morning.

Life's darkest moment was upon him. Suddenly a desperate plan suggested itself.

Promptly at 8:30 on Monday he presented himself at court. The judge called him by name. He remained with the crowd that wished to be excused. The judge demanded his reason.

With troubled look and coughing hard he approached his Honor and whispered in his ear: "Listen, Jim —I wanna go fishin'."

The judge with a look of pain on his face exclaimed loudly: "Oh, I'm so sorry to hear it. You are excused."

He who would rise to stately heights,
And climb to summits of truth and wonder—

Should keep in training for those flights,
By always taking an upper berth.

Speaking of Jingle-Jangles.

A number of readers mistake two-liners, with one single thought, for a Jingle-Jangle.

A Jingle-Jangle is a nonsensical rhyme, with the chuckle in the second line. For example:
After winter comes the spring!
Tonsils hurt like everything!

While we won't run any more requests for Jingle-Jangles, keep on sending them in, as well as other humor.

Help Murder!

A sharp retort, a queer shrill cry
—then silence.
Quickly he strode forward and gazing down with a look of triumph and satisfaction at his victim, calmly considered means of disposing of the body.

Hearing approaching footsteps he cried out: "Oh, Hattie! I've caught another mouse in the pantry."

Oil in the Can

BY JONATHAN BROOK

Continued From Yesterday.

"Now listen," Arthur went on,
"listen! If this little filly's got anything left, after what happened to her the other day, and if she feels like runnin', you two take it from me she's gonna have all the track she can use. See? I'm gonna be out there to see she's got her share of the track.
Get me?"

He fairly barked that last question, and then suddenly ceased speaking. Neal and Mullaney were looking at him pop-eyed. He turned back to his seat on the bench and sat down.
Other jockeys secretly rejoiced at his ultimatum.

Who would describe a Tucky stakes crowd, or a Tucky stakes day? Who would? A high sky and a high spirited gathering greeted eleven thoroughbreds parading down the track.

At the head of the column strode
The Prince and The Pauper, with Mullaney and Neal bobbing acknowledgment of the plaudits of the throng.

Half-way back pranced
Cynthia's Child, full of life that had been pent in her stall since the shaking up she had received in the last race.

Arthur Wamsly, old Arthur Wams-ly, sat in the saddle after fifteen years, just as high in spirits as the little filly. The old thrill of the track was in his heart. He felt as much at home as if his fifteen years absence had been but a day.

And his resolution, far from weakening, grew stronger every moment.
For was it not the Bellman entry, ahead there, that drew the applause
of the great crowd?

"Whoever beats the Bellman pair wins the race," said the wise ones.
"But they can't be beaten," was the universal retort. "Fifth time in a row for Bellman. He's got a hundred thousand up!"

Arthur Wamsly, with no thought for the excited little Arthur, darn near shivering his shirt off from excitement, or for the matter-of-fact Tilda, hoping he would not get hurt, accepted the popular verdict on the race.

To win the race, he must beat the Bellman pair.

They were not long at the post.
Cynthia's Child broke with the rear,
but Arthur Wamsly took her back.

It was not part of his program to permit the little filly to set the pace and break the wind for ten great, hulking colts. There was a mile and a quarter to go.

In a furlong the field had settled, strung out slightly, and Arthur had found his place. Neal, with The Pauper, and Mullaney, on The Prince, pulled in side by side at the rail behind four rushing pace makers. Arthur Wamsly swung the little filly in behind them and followed in their wake out of the wind. So far, so good.

Arthur tucked his head down to dodge the flying clouds from the black colts' hoofs, and sat tight.

At the end of the first quarter, a horse came up from the rear on the outside to challenge. When Neal and Mullaney moved, Arthur let the filly have her head to hold the place. The challenger fell back.

At the half mile Mullaney and Neal velled at each other, and urged the blacks ahead to overhaul the horse
next ahead. Arthur and Cynthia's Child moved right with them so that.
